Top UBC Prize Won by City Student

Ninth Time City Scholar Wins Award

The Governor-General's Gold Medal today was won by a Victoria student for the third successive year as Michael Gerry, 20, of 933 Falkland Road, finished at the head of the 1960 graduating class in the faculty of arts and science at UBC.

It is the ninth occasion since 1945 that local students have walked away with the highest academic award bestowed in the province.

MARLENE REPEATS

In the list of award winners throughout the province, prepared by the university for release this morning, last year's Gold Medal winner Marlene Rae Hunt, 521 White-side, received a pre-master's degree scholarship from Canada Council.

ISLAND TRIUMPH

In all, this year, 20 awards went to students from Vancouver Island.

Stewart Cecil Clark of Nanaimo receives the Hornes Gold Medal for heading the graduating class in the faculty of pharmacy. He also won a $50 Cunningham Prize for the most outstanding record in all years of pharmacy, and the Merck book award for the highest standing in pharmaceutical chemistry.

OTHER AWARDS

In addition to the governor-general's award, Mr. Gerry receives the Lefevre Gold Medal with a $62.50 scholarship for proficiency in chemistry, and an $1,800 bursary from the National Research Council.

Mr. Gerry is working for the summer at the Pacific Naval Laboratory in Esquimalt. He said yesterday he will return to UBC this fall to take a master's degree in chemistry. But beyond that his future plans are "indefinite."

PRIVATE SCHOOLS

He is the son of Mrs. Gwyneth Gerry, 833 Falkland, and was runner-up in class standings at the end of his second and final year at Victoria University. His early education was at Glenlyon and University School.

Patricia York of Nanaimo received honorable mention as runner-up for the Dr. Maxwell A. Cameron Memorial award for general proficiency in the faculty of education.

SURGERY AWARD

Donald Ross Carlow, 2751 Avebury, won the Dr. Frank Porter Patterson Memorial $150 scholarship for proficiency and meritorious record in surgery. He also receives the Hamber Scholarship in medicine of $750 towards his internship.

Robin Hugh Farquhar, 2012 Romney, was awarded a $250 B.C. Electric scholarship for graduate study.

IOE PRIZE

IOE Scott Memorial $100 scholarship for proficiency in genetics went to John Joseph Hager, 1516 Pembroke.

Awards made by other institutions included: Athlete Scholarship for engineering training in the U.K. to David William Brown, 3965 Locarno; National Research Council studentships worth $2,200 each to Marcus A. M. Bell, 742 St. Patrick, Audrey F. Ellis, 2586 Blackwood, Arthur J. S. Smith, 1255 Oscar, and Barry E. Turner, 4560 Viewmont.

OTTAWA BURSARY

John M. Gilliland 840 Richmond, was awarded a National Research Council bursary of $1,800. Timothy Angus Williams of Victoria won a Woodrow Wilson National Fellowship worth $1,500 for graduate study leading to academic teaching.

Once in a Lifetime Thrill

head of 1960 graduating class at UBC made him fling it over his head. He will return to take master's degree in chemistry at UBC this fall.—(Colonist photo.)

Black Tongue? —Try a Vet

Colonist reporter Terry Hammond, along with scores of other Victorians, is trying to kick the cigarette habit with the help of the Colonist's recent series of articles by Arthur King. Hammond, a three-pack-a-day addict, describes another step in his withdrawal.

By TERRY HAMMOND
Q-Day minus eight.

More questions from readers.

Q. My niece smokes so much that she doesn't eat anything and her tongue is black. Isn't it time she quit?

A. Your niece has black tongue, a disease heretofore only common among cattle and dogs. Try taking her to a veterinarian. You ask me if she should quit smoking and, presumably, resume eating. This seems sound, but it should be made clear to your niece that she can't expect to save as much by cutting out cigarettes as she did by giving up food.

Q. The Arthur King series said that for two or three days after Q-Day the person who is giving up cigarettes should avoid stress. I would like to point out that if a person could avoid stress he would not have started smoking in the first place.

A. We have just cancelled your subscription.

Q. My husband started to quit smoking with your series but now he has given it up and he is back to smoking before breakfast. This morning he burned a hole in the blanket. I don't know what to do—do you?

A. Yes, double the insurance on your home and see if you can get your husband to sleep in the bathtub with about an inch of water over him. Liberal oiling of the skin twice a day will take out the wrinkles.

Q. I have been a heavy smoker for 47 years and a week ago I quit all at once. What do you think of that?

A. I don't think of it at all—I don't even believe it.

Q. I am quitting smoking and I would like to know if it is true that a quart of buttermilk a day has helped some people?

A. Yes, it is true. It has helped the buttermilk people.

Q. I have a friend who stopped smoking three years ago but who says he still misses it. How long can this last?

A. Sixty to 80 years, depending how old he is.

Q. I read about a man who smoked every day of his adult life and lived to be 109. Doesn't this contradict what the experts say?

A. No, he died of lung cancer.

We Can't Fire Off Protests Daily Green Tells House Critics of U.S.

OTTAWA (CP)—Canada can't fire off protest notes every day or two to the United States, External Affairs Minister Green said yesterday. He said this is particularly true when Washington already knows Canada's position well.

This was Mr. Green's Commons reply to Paul Martin (L. Essex East), who asked whether the government had indicated to the U.S. its opposition to underground nuclear tests.

well known to the U.S. and no protest has been made," Mr. Green replied. Mr. Green several times has summed up Canada's position on nuclear tests this way: "We are opposed to nuclear tests, period."

Hazen Argue, CCF House leader, asked about the U.S. plan to set off four nuclear explosions in Alaska for peaceful purposes. Mr. Green said the U.S. has no immediate intention of doing this.

Reds May Help Newfoundland With Labrador

ST. JOHN'S, Nfld. (CP)—Premier Joseph Smallwood calmly announced Thursday night that Newfoundland and Russia may get together on developing Labrador's vast power potential. Then the premier dashed to his office, locked his door to reporters and retired for the night.

Mr. Smallwood told 100 members of the St. John's Lions' Club that Russian experts are prepared to help Newfoundland tap the power potential of Hamilton Falls in central Labrador.

SHOWN INTEREST

The Russians, he said, have shown interest in the development "and have said that provided it is for peaceful purposes they are willing to help with whatever technical knowledge they have."

The premier left immediately after the dinner for his office in the Confederation building. He sleeps on a day bed in the office when he remains in the city at night. His farm at Roache's Line is 50 miles away.

It was not known what—if any—communication with Russian officials the premier has had.

The premier said it was only a question of finding customers and a convenient and economical way of delivering the power.

"The Russians may have the answer to that," he said. "We are going to find out."

Mr. Smallwood did not elaborate.

He was expounding "the great natural treasure" of Labrador's minerals when he mentioned the Russians.

Playboy-Prince

Crash Kills Aly Khan

PARIS (AP)—Playboy diplomat Prince Aly Khan, 48, father of the young reigning Aga Khan, was killed Thursday night in a car crash at suburban Suresnes.

With the prince, a connoisseur of beautiful women, was the French model Bettina. She was released after hospital treatment.

Police said Prince Aly was killed at the wheel of his grey Lancia when it smashed head-on into another car in the centre of a suburban highway.

FIRST SON

Prince Aly was the first son of the late Aga Khan III and father of Aga Khan IV. The latter succeeded to the title over Prince Aly while he was a university student three years ago.

SETTLED DOWN

Prince Aly, who lately had settled down as permanent representative of Pakistan at the United Nations in New York, had long kept feminine hearts fluttering in the glittering world in which he moved.

He was romantically involved with celebrated beauties and his marriage to Rita Hayworth—destined to break up less than two years later—was a lavish Riviera affair of 1949 that attracted world-wide attention.

WELL-KNOWN

As a horseman, his thoroughbreds were well-known to the world's tracks.

Aly Khan was born in Turin, Italy, June 3, 1911, the son of the Aga Khan III by the second of his four wives, an Italian ballet dancer named Theresa Magliano.

He was an officer with the French Foreign Legion, then was with the British Army, and during the latter part of the Second World War was attached to the American Army. He won the Croix de Guerre, Legion of Honor and Bronze Star.

Macmillan Hopeful For Parley

By UPI, AP and Reuters

PARIS—Allied diplomats said last night Soviet Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev may have advanced his arrival time in Paris to establish a pre-summit propaganda beachhead before President Eisenhower gets here.

An announcement that Khrushchev planned to arrive here around noon Saturday touched off a wave of speculation concerning his intentions. Eisenhower and British Prime Minister Harold Macmillan are scheduled to reach Paris Sunday. The summit conference opens Monday.

SPY INCIDENT

Some western officials believed Khrushchev might have decided to get here first to try to get in some propaganda spadework with President Charles de Gaulle over the American "spy" plane incident. (See spy plane developments on Page 3.)

French officials insisted that no meeting before the summit had been asked for or arranged. But they noted it was possible Khrushchev might pay a courtesy call on his French host with whom he was reported at odds over the publicity ground rules for the big four conference.

FACE-TO-FACE

The dramatic face-to-face meeting of Khrushchev and Eisenhower in the wake of the furore over the American espionage plane incident has almost obscured the real purpose of the summit—to discuss the problems of Berlin, Germany and disarmament.

In London—Prime Minister Macmillan said the American spy incident might even help the East-West summit conference.

"If the summit came in a bit like a lion," he said, "then perhaps it would go out like a lamb. It is sometimes better to have a little of the trouble in the first stages of the discussion," Macmillan told the House of Commons.

QUOTES DISRAELI

Macmillan quoted 19th century Prime Minister Benjamin Disraeli as saying, "the most successful conferences were those that met in a healthy state of mutual suspicion."

The prime minister said an air of "vital urgency" could keep the summit leaders from "a temptation to let things slide."

Foreign Secretary Selwyn Lloyd said the spy plane incident might serve a useful purpose in "shaking people out of their complacency" about the summit conference.

COMMONS DEBATE

He was replying in a House of Commons debate to Opposition Leader Hugh Gaitskell, who said U.S. intelligence flights over Russia clearly violate international law.

As workmen hammered, cleaned and repainted, French Information Minister Louis Terrenoire told newspaper men:

"It's certain that the conference, because of the air-plane incident, will open in an atmosphere infinitely more uncertain than one thought before."

ALL ABOARD

With G. E. Mortimore

THE name "province" to designate regions of Canada was poorly chosen, says a reader.

It diminishes British Columbia's status, for example, when B.C. tries to sell her goods through trade missions in Europe.

In Europe—including Britain—the word "provinces" has the same meaning that we attach to our slang phrase "out in the sticks."

"Provincials" are fusty people who live far from the main centres of commerce and the arts.

So when we put up a sign on a B.C. office overseas: "Province of British Columbia," we may be giving some people the idea that we are hayseeds, the man says.

Couldn't we choose a name that would show our great power and strength? Not now, I'm afraid. If we re-named the regional political units of our federal system "states," people would say we were aping the U.S.A.

So we'll sit tight, and in time the Europeans may come to accept our meaning for the word "province."

People may not realize this, but Victoria still has a public market, where one can buy fresh food direct from the producer. It's in the old co-operative store on Pandora Avenue near Broad Street, Wednesday and Saturday mornings.

It's having a difficult time in these days of supermarkets, shiny packing and slick merchandising. Once it has gone, a lot of people will be sorry. I hope they don't wait until it is nearly dead before lending it their support.

"You criticize one of our comrades for not writing his name in a letter to you," says Larry Tickner, 1280 Pike Street.

"It may not have come to your attention, but workers who develop ideas (especially Socialist ideas) and attempt to take advantage of their so-called democratic right of free speech to express them, mysteriously find an ever-decreasing demand for their labor power."

"Inevitably, with the spectre of absolute poverty threatening, he yields to the hint and resorts to silence or the use of pseudonyms."

"This may appear a bit cowardly to one who so gallantly risks his life in the interests of the master class but Socialists consider that a starved emaciated worker can do little to promote Socialism."

"Nevertheless, there are always some young Socialists who are willing to run the gauntlet for a little while, by signing their names."

Good for you, Mr. Tickner. As long as some people have the courage to attack newspaper columnists, politicians, labor union officials, political soldiers and all kinds of self-appointed experts, there is hope for the world.

Nobody enjoys being caught in a mistake, or a half-truth. It's like an old-fashioned tonic—foul tasting but good for the insides. It makes you think.

I'm glad to notice that there are keen-eyed, savage young men perched on the rocks like lone snipers, ready to shoot down error as soon as it shows its head.

About using correspondents' names—I don't mind keeping them out of print here, as long as I have the names on file myself. I won't give them away.

As for Socialism, I haven't yet made up my mind about it. Ask me again in five years.

Central Junior High Pupil

Tour Poster Wins With Cluster Light

Winning entry in the schools poster contest held in conjunction with Tourist Appreciation Week was one of the simplest designs entered.

Drawn by Hudson Wong, 25 Marlborough, a 13-year-old Grade 8 student at Central Junior High School, the poster shows a cluster light in green and white on a blue background with the legend "T.A.W. May 23-28, 1960."

Second was Doris Miller, 14, of 1439 Myrtle Avenue, a Grade 8 student at Lansdowne Junior High School, and Larry Whitman, 15, of 2655 Victor, a Grade 9 student at Lansdowne

Junior High School, came third.

Prizes were $50, $25 and $25. Judges were Thomas Stock and Sidney Barron.

Honorable mentions were won by John Kornuta, 16, of 3228 Wascana Street, Grade 9 at Colquitz Junior High School; Vicki Wright, 13, 1230 Reynolds Road, Grade 9 at Lansdowne; Jan Horn, 12, of 523 Harbinger, Grade 7 at Central High School, and Gordon Callow, 13, of 4003 Bow Road, Grade 7 at Lansdowne.

In their comments, the judges said the posters all showed great possibilities which made judging quite difficult.

MR. JUSTICE T. G. NORRIS ... sex crimes rising

'Shocking, Outrageous Brutality'

NEW WESTMINSTER (CP)

A Supreme Court justice said he was taking the "great prevalence of sex crimes in this province" into consideration in sentencing a sailor to five years' jail for assaulting a 13-year-old girl.

Mr. Justice T. G. Norris called Andrew McCorrison's attack "an offence committed with a most shocking and outrageous brutality."

"You have been found guilty of an extremely serious offence, an offence for which the maximum punishment is that you be whipped and imprisoned for life," the effect of your attack on that defenceless girl may be with her for years to come."

Obituaries

Survey Pioneer Buried

Private funeral services were held at 2 p.m. Wednesday for Francis Algernon (Frank) Devereaux who died Monday at his "Westbourne" Bay Street residence. He was 93.

Mr. Devereaux was born in Victoria in 1867 and was educated here. In 1884 he joined the firm of Harris and Hargreaves, civil engineers and provincial land surveyors.

His travels with survey crews took him to many parts of the province. He worked on the E & N Railway and prepared the first contour plan of Victoria, later used for installing the city's sewer system.

From 1903 to 1909 he was assistant city engineer in Victoria and then became the first engineer for Oak Bay.

Later he worked on reconstruction of the Cariboo Road. His father, Capt. John Francis Devereaux, was a pioneer resident, explorer and famous sea captain. He is survived by two sisters and a brother. Private funeral services were conducted in Hayward's funeral home by Canon George Biddle.

Mary Gowen

Funeral services for a native Victoria resident, Miss Mary Emma Gowen, 88, who died Tuesday, will be held at Hayward's funeral home, today at 3.15 p.m.

Her brother Augustus Gowen, died last April 9.

Surviving are a niece, Mrs. R. McKay of Victoria and other nieces and nephews in B.C. and the United States.

Re-Awakening for Fitness?

OTTAWA (CP) — Lowered physical fitness is the price Canadians pay for a higher living standard, Dr. George Davidson, deputy welfare minister, said yesterday.

Dr. Davidson told the Commons estimates committee that there has been a re-awakening in the possibility of a national physical fitness program.

Committees of the health department and the Canadian Medical Association were working together to study what course might be taken to establish a federal-provincial program.

Health Minister Monteith, who carries out some of the fitness exercises detailed in

The Albany River in Northern Ontario, one of the pioneer fur trade routes, flows 320 miles to its outlet in James Bay.

the RCAF's "SBX" plan, noted that the Federal Physical Fitness Act passed in 1943 had been repealed in 1953 because of lack of interest by the provinces.

He said he doubts that the old act could be revived.

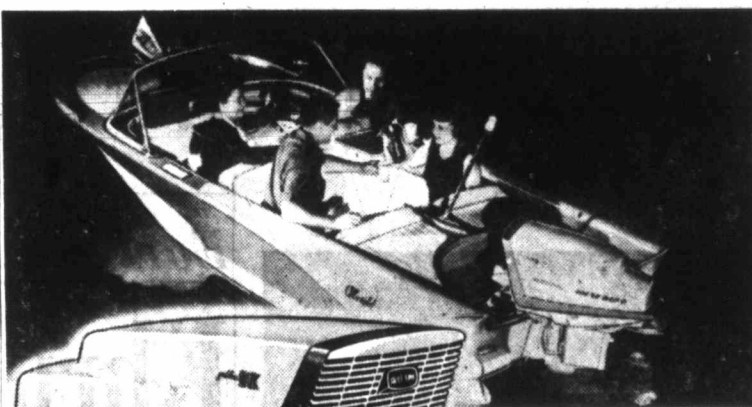

"You can't legislate somebody into taking physical training," he said.

Dr. Davidson said statistics purport to show that fitness among Canadians is less than it should be.

Most of these statistics were based on the number of rejections of recruits by the armed forces.

One shouldn't jump to the conclusion that everyone rejected by the armed forces was a physical wreck. The armed forces conducted special tests for a special purpose and some of Canada's best athletes couldn't pass them.

Maybe YOU won't get 35 mpg!

Frontenac can deliver better-than-35 miles per gallon under ideal driving conditions. Perfectly tuned engine. Regulated load. Steady speed. Precise, gas-miser driving. Few people drive that way.

Gas mileage is largely a matter of individual driving habits. In controlled tests Frontenac has delivered as much as 41 miles per gallon. However, if you prefer enjoyment to outright gas thrifty driving, you may get only 25.

City driving can take its toll, too. No matter how careful you are, you still have to stop. Speed up. Slow down. Speed up again. Under these conditions, even a Frontenac won't respond with its best mileage record. But Frontenac is designed for economy. Only the degree is up to you.

If you want top gas mileage keep your car "tuned" and drive for it. If you like to "step on it" from time to time, expect less. But, whatever your driving method, Frontenac gives you maximum compact car economy.

And it doesn't stop with gas savings. Frontenac's full-flow oil filter lets you drive as many as 4,000 miles between oil changes. Its muffler is aluminumized to last twice as long. The lively 90 hp. Frontenac Six has the lowest wear index of any compact engine.

Maybe you will get 35 mpg. Maybe not. But there'll be a smile in every mile, because in a Frontenac it's a pleasure to save money, no matter how you drive. See your Frontenac dealer and start saving—today!

Reds to Make Example of Spy But Incident Will Be 'Digested'

MOSCOW (UPI)—Nikita Khrushchev, warning that any future espionage flights over Russia might lead to instantaneous atomic war, served notice that Russia would make an example of a captured American flyer by trying him "severely" as a spy.

The Soviet premier's remarks were made yesterday and were released today. They were held up almost 24 hours by censorship without explanation. The maximum penalty for espionage in Russia is death by shooting.

Although Khrushchev continued his bitter attacks on the United States in general and Secretary of State Christian Herter in particular, he told newsmen he was an "incredible optimist" and believed that the plane incident gradually would be "digested" because the world must live in peace and friendship.

"We want good relations with the United States and believe that given time we will have good relations," he said. "We know when to be infuriated, but we also have good heads on our shoulders."

But in almost the same breath, Khrushchev said he was "altering" his original opinion that President Eisenhower knew nothing of the spy plane and he castigated Herter as an "imperialist."

It was disclosed that Khrushchev would arrive in Paris Saturday to attend the summit conference with the Western Big Three.

"I like Paris and I am going," Khrushchev said. "If the others are not, I'll be there." Meanwhile, Moscow residents flocked to Gorky Park and lined up to see the United States spy plane exhibit.

Case Shows Jet Need Says RCAF

OTTAWA (CP)—To the RCAF, the significance of the spy plane incident is confirmation of its view that the air force needs a new manned interceptor.

The RCAF has long argued that interceptors are required to patrol Canadian air space, if for no other reason.

It says Canadians have for years shown concern about American military aircraft flying over Canada—the U-2 reconnaissance plane is a case in point—but have apparently worried little about the possibility of Russian planes cruising over the Canadian Arctic.

Defence Minister Pearkes informed the Commons this week that unknown aircraft have been detected in the north by the Distant Early Warning radar line but that they had not been identified as Russian because Canada didn't have the planes to intercept them.

Spy Sparks Japan Crisis

TOKYO (AP)—Japan has entered a period of crisis in its efforts to ratify its new security alliance with the United States.

The ratification could fail and Premier Kishi could lose his job. Japan could be sent drifting toward neutrality.

Leftists of all shades want Japan neutralized in the cold war. The downed jet gives the Socialist party explosive ammunition to convince the public that the alliance with America will get Japan into war.

U.S. Questions Red Intentions At Summit After Spy Furore

WASHINGTON (UPI)—any more spy planes over Soviet territory.

The American note said the United States "does not deny" carrying out air reconnaissance "for purely defensive purposes." But it said this country denies "emphatically" that the U-2 flight was made with a "four paragraph note" reply to "aggressive intent" or that it was intended to sabotage the summit conference opening in measures "if America sends Paris next Monday."

"Indeed," the note said, "it is the Soviet government's treatment of this case which, if anything, may raise questions about its intentions in respect to these matters."

It said President Eisenhower will go to the summit prepared to "co-operate to the fullest extent" in seeking ways to ease tensions and create safeguards against surprise attack.

Waited Nine Years

Koreans Lynch Ex-Chief In Revenge for Massacre

SEOUL (AP)—A former village chief was lynched Wednesday night in revenge for a massacre nine years ago during the Korean War, the Donghwa news agency reported.

Park Yung-Bo, 44, a brewery owner and former chief of Shinwon-myon, 160 miles southeast of Seoul, was burned to death by 70 relatives of those massacred.

It was the first vengeance death since the overthrow of Syngman Rhee's regime last month.

Policemen and soldiers hurried to the house but were surrounded and attacked. More troops and policemen were called before order was restored.

The massacre—known as the "Kochang Incident"—took place in February, 1951. The mountainous area was infested with North Korean Communist guerrillas who relied on the villages for food and supplies.

South Korean authorities ordered three villages in the area cleared to deny their aid to the guerrillas, and troops opened fire on villagers who refused to get out.

A court-martial later reported that 187 persons were killed in the massacre, but a Pusan newspaper this week quoted one survivor as saying at least 610 persons were killed, 70 per cent of them children and old men.

Inglis RATED NUMBER ONE BY CANADIAN HOUSEWIVES SALES PROVE IT!

THE FULL-TIME INGLIS LINT FILTER

Works all the time your wash is on—even on partial loads. Not a speck of lint fuzz gets on your clothes. So easy to clean, too. You simply switch it under the tap!

FREE-FLOW DRAINING

Ensures a thoroughly clean wash. Instead of wash and rinse water draining through your clothes, they drain away from the actual wash, leaving it beautifully clean.

THE FAMOUS INGLIS "SUDS AND WATER SAVER"

On a big load, the hot sudsy water is pumped into your laundry tub, then pumped back for re-use with your next load. No, the water doesn't cool off because the thick suds form an effective insulation.

DRYER FEATURES 8 CYCLES

The Inglis Royal dryer with its 20 lb. capacity has automatic drying cycles for everything from really heavy fabrics to your most delicate sheers—and wash'n wears.

DRIES WASH'N WEARS WRINKLE-FREE

Ten minutes before the drying time is up, the heat automatically shuts off, and your wash'n wears are cooled and air-fluffed for 10 minutes at room temperature.

"SANI-SUN" LAMP FOR SUN-FRESH FRAGRANCE

Switch on your Royal dryer and the built-in "Sani-Sun" lamp drenches your clothes with sunshine goodness—without the danger of sunlight fading. Gives your clothes a fresh, wholesome scent. Helps sanitise, too.

18 WASHING CYCLES FIT EVERY FABRIC NEED

The Inglis Royal not only washes automatically, but it selects the correct setting automatically. You simply select and push the button that matches the fabric group you want to wash, and turn the dial until it stops. The washer then fills to the proper pre-set level with the correct wash water temperature; selects the right washing speed; the exact washing time required; the correct rinse water temperature; the proper safe spin speed... all automatically!

Stability and Growth

MANY people confused by the divergent opinions of economists in various parts of the country in the first quarter of the year will be encouraged by the less exciting but more practical reasoning which has since become fairly general in business and financial circles. Mr. A. Hazlett Lemmon, a noted insurance executive, and vice-president of Canada Life, said this week that confidence in the bond market, price stability in the trade structure and steady continuance of capital spending for business purposes were encouraging signs in Canada's economy and promised well for the balance of the year.

Mr. A. C. Ashforth, president of the Toronto-Dominion Bank, in an address at Montreal, touched on the same factors and described the result as a "contained" boom, more valuable to the welfare of the nation than any progress by fits and starts. He said that business was examining its books more closely, and that outlays to be made this year would generally be of a productive rather than an expansionist nature. The outlook for Canadian exports was improving, particularly in lines which through volume had an appreciable effect on the economy. "We should congratulate ourselves that no boom has broken out, that businessmen have not accumulated excessive inventories, and that capital expansion programs are being approached with a much sharper pencil than they were in 1955."

Aside from these comments, industrial statistics which for the opening months of 1960 were somewhat equivocal, have quieted down to much steadier indications. In most parts, Canada is making steady progress towards a more stable performance this year than has been the case for two years back. The clamor on governments for emergent remedies in aid of this or that section of the economy has lessened, and most Canadians are determinedly working their way out of whatever have been the effects of the inflationary spiral of the prior period. The difference between Canadian and American currencies appears on the way towards working out to a more normal performance, with considerable benefit to the exporters and in other ways.

No national economy, however, can be described in terms only of governmental action and business initiative. It is still true that what Canadians in all walks of life do with the balance of this year will determine much of its consequences to themselves and to the nation. Mr. Lemmon made the useful point that there can be no borrowing unless people save, and Canada was still in need of steady and consistent savings to finance more of the development of its own resources without reliance on incoming capital. Even without a "boom," however, Canada seems to be making headway in a year that opened uncertainly but bids fair to end on the forward line.

'Nelson's Blood'

A CONSERVATIVE MP from Vancouver has suggested that the Navy eliminate "Nelson's blood" from the sailor's beverages. This is enough to make the good admiral turn in his grave, or, perhaps, substitute the equally foolish proposal that Niagara Falls be stopped from flowing.

One wouldn't say exactly that the Navy thrives on rum. It is a tiny tot that is issued in all conscience, hardly enough to whet the whistle of a real he-man, and as everyone knows the Navy is full of he-men. But it is like the sailor's shoes, his porridge, his bell-bottom trousers and his ribboned cap—part of his inheritance. One tampers with "Nelson's blood" at one's peril, as this MP would find out if ever he shifted his constituency to Esquimalt.

The MP says the saving on rum would finance Canada's Olympic athletes. Perhaps it would. So in such case would a fine on every MP who missed a Commons sitting. If Canada is so poor it must chisel on the Navy to send competitors to the Olympics all kinds of alternative vapidity might be mooted.

One young sailor made the right rebuttal, of course. The rum tot is part of his pay and privileges. He does not draw his tot—many sailors don't—and the allowance in lieu is a recognized emolument. Perhaps the Vancouver MP should examine his own fringe benefits.

The MP states further that his proposal has the backing of the women's temperance group in Ottawa. One doubts this group is an authority on the dietary schedules of sailors, but if these ladies are really concerned about Olympic athletes they might find the answer in their own pink teas. They could give up eating chocolate eclairs. This should finance at least two Olympic trips.

Another Try

WHATEVER may have been differences in the viewpoints of British Columbia and the Dominion over developing hydro-electric potential on the Columbia River, the time has certainly come to anneal them and achieve the common front which will be essential to any practical advance in the international discussions. The public has been left much in the dark at both ends of the country as to what may be in prospect.

There have been vague hints of what Ottawa is prepared to lend to the province if the Columbia project is ratified. There have been equally vague assertions by the province against this offer and in respect of B.C.'s other power source, the Peace River.

It is all very well for Mr. Williston to suggest that reports of differences between Ottawa and James Bay have been exaggerated, but several times including the present mission the Dominion government seems to have taken the initiative in asking that a uniform stand be worked out. On Saturday federal representatives will be in Victoria again, including two members of the cabinet and a technical adviser; and that will be the second cross-country mission in the space of a few weeks. When all of this negotiation is ended the public will expect to be told what is in prospect officially and formally in a fashion which can, somewhere, be tied down.

Interpreting the News

Verwoerd Is Missed

By ALAN HARVEY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

THE real tragedy of the Commonwealth conference is that of the principal man who isn't here.

As worried ministers grope for a solution to the South African problem, the absence from London of all Premier Dr. Hendrik Verwoerd is increasingly regretted.

With Verwoerd slowly recovering from bullet wounds, his place at the conference table in Downing Street is taken by Eric Louw, the union's external affairs minister.

It will be Louw's duty to carry back to his premier in Pretoria a true picture of the feelings of his Commonwealth colleagues—and that is exactly what some observers fear he may fail in.

Louw is widely regarded here as an impenetrable man, with a mind closed to entreaty or reproach. British officials, usually polite in their assessment of visiting dignitaries, are unusually blunt in their remarks about Louw.

One London paper says it is "no secret that some of the prime ministers are developing a considerable personal antagonism towards this dogmatic man."

There is reason to believe that things might have been different with Verwoerd. He is just as convinced as Louw of the rightness of Nationalist racial policies, but he is formidable intellectually and prepared to listen to other points of view.

Conference sources feel he would have received a different impression here than the one Louw may pass on to him. As it is, the result may be that South Africa will persist in policies that a great majority of outside observers regard as unwise.

For these reasons, the conference is submerged in foreboding. The Commonwealth will survive this crisis, as it has survived other dark moments.

Thinking Aloud

"... of shoes and ships—and sealing wax—of cabbages and kings."

By TOM TAYLOR

THE pious horror being expressed in many countries about America's aerial spying seems hypocritical.

It reminds me in a sense of some of the spleen directed against South Africa.

As though virtue is outraged only when somebody is found out. Holier-than-thou at work.

Every nation spies, only it is given the polite name of military intelligence. E. Phillips Oppenheim made a fortune out of stories based on espionage.

Only two days ago two Soviet officials were ordered out of Switzerland for spying. The Gouzenko case in Canada has surely not been forgotten.

* * *

Is it somehow more venial to spy from the sky than on land? For that matter does anyone imagine that Soviet planes haven't made spying sorties?

America's bloomer was not in spying but in telling a lie that wouldn't stand up. This is not to defend government lies but he would be naive indeed who didn't recognize that all governments indulge in—well, if not lies then their equivalent; ambiguous evasive statements meant to mislead.

And domestically as well as in foreign affairs. The hard thing for the layman to determine is the "moment of truth" in any government statement.

Does anyone suppose that Mr. Khrushchev is veracity personified; even in every utterance connected with the spy-plane incident?

Far the more serious American fault is the timing of the reconnaissance plane that was shot down. It was either folly or incompetence or worse that didn't call off these flights with a summit meeting in the offing.

That's really the worrisome thing. Because if some nameless person is free to risk upsetting the international apple-cart at a critical diplomatic moment then some other irresponsible hand might cause the sky to be abused in much more disastrous fashion.

That thought alone is enough to keep anyone awake at nights.

As for the spying itself, one might legitimately ask if a man spy is a more grievous offender than a mechanical spy.

* * *

There are space vehicles of various kinds flying round and round the globe, out of sight but not necessarily on an innocent aerial safari. One of them took photographs of the moon; if that could be done could not other photographs be transmitted back to earth?

Who knows what kind of information is being received, or has been received, by the rival protagonists in the cold war.

Yet no one ever raises a voice against this violation of space and calls it spying.

And it was Russia which first put an electronic informer into the air, flying over other countries without by-your-leave.

The inconsistency that indicts a manned plane but absolves a mechanical observer is certainly strange.

Undoubtedly the Soviet Union has spies in every country it wants to have them in. Why pilory America because it sends some of its spies up into the air? Spying is spying no matter from what base the spy operates.

Commonwealth Leadership Lacking

By RICHARD L. THOMAS

THIS is Commonwealth Week in Britain. There was the opening of the conference of Commonwealth prime ministers and, of course, the royal wedding. The family reunion is on, and with the family is the little delinquent South Africa, a prize problem child—in many ways that one.

Indeed South Africa hangs like a cloud over the conference. Everyone is talking about her but no one is willing to make the direct approach. It seems possible that this juvenile offender—the youngest of the old boys—may indirectly mar the effectiveness of the conference.

One of the major problems is Commonwealth leadership. Ever since the Statute of Westminster became effective with its avowed proclamation of equality the Commonwealth has been without a leader. Any implication that Britain is leader by tradition has vanished with Winston Churchill; ever since prime ministers have fallen over backwards to demonstrate the fundamental truth of equality and Britain has been scared stiff to take the initiative for fear of being misunderstood.

There have been suggestions that this family reunion was going to discuss the question of leadership but that has been dropped lest South Africa fear that everyone was gang-ing up against her. The basic idea was the formation of a council of ministers with alternating chairmen able to keep in touch a little more effectively than by family correspondence. It was to have been an attempt to make a compromise between the present loose affiliation and the well-reasoned fear that too much formality would wreck the family relationship.

There is no doubt that the Commonwealth position is difficult. Even staunchest friends detect a weakening of purpose and moral strength.

A council of ministers, meeting regularly for informal discussions, could do a great deal to restore the prestige of leadership. It could do a great deal to influence Commonwealth development and offer a greater sense of family security to newly independent nations. The British Commonwealth Relations office could easily be expanded to provide a ready-made nucleus for a Commonwealth secretariat.

The trouble at the moment is that too many nations are thinking in terms of independence and too few in terms of family responsibility. It is one thing to regard the Commonwealth in terms of pious platitudes and family affection, and quite another to translate them into practical terms of value in a chaotic world desperately needing moral leadership.

The great virtue of the meetings of Commonwealth prime ministers is that everything is informal. There are no agendas, no minutes, no formal decisions—but the intent is to strengthen Commonwealth bonds. There is a healthy respect for the internal affairs to remain the prerogative of member nations—and not without reason. Everyone has a skeleton in the cupboard.

Canadians righteously indignant with South Africa's peculiar brand of apartheid would do well to contemplate the prospect of offering sanctuary in Canada to some of Dr. Verwoerd's colored victims. Betting would not be heavy on their prospects of admission. Australians may view South Africa's attitude with horror whilst vehemently defending their own "white Australia" policy—the simple form of apartheid which keeps colored people out of the country. Here in Britain we view imprisonment without trial with theoretical horror but we practice it regularly in African possessions and much nearer home—in Northern Ireland.

It is wise not to go too fully into current problems. Too many current affairs have their shadows in history—there are too many ghosts of Australian aboriginals, Canadian Indians and British colonialists who have been joined by the victims of Sharpeville to make discussion fruitful. Time gives perspective but not moral authority. All periods of time have their throwbacks.

The fear of the moment is that any attempt to mobilize the latent moral force within the Commonwealth could hardly be done without specifically excluding South Africa, or else making it appear that her government had the support of other members of the Commonwealth. The present hope is that some agreement will be reached which may effectively reduce tension in South Africa and make possible closer unity later on.

No one expects, or would wish, that the Commonwealth speaks with one voice. The need is for the strengthening of moral purpose—for more effective co-operation in matters other than pure economics and trade. There is an increasing need for family co-operation in helping the smaller colonies. There is vast scope for co-operation in education and medical resources. Some steps have been taken but there are greater opportunities given leadership and courage.

A council of ministers would help. It would allow for some form of effective leadership rotating round the Commonwealth. It would offer new opportunities, the transfusion of blood from some of the younger members of the family. It is to be hoped that the delinquency of one member will not prevent some of these hopes, at least, being realized.

More Than a Suit

(From The Ottawa Journal)

SOCIETY once thought that giving a released prisoner a new suit and five dollars in his pocket was the height of enlightened benevolence to a man who had just "paid his debt." But the five dollars didn't go far and the new suit didn't really make it easier to get a job. Too often a man was back behind bars paying off a new debt.

We have come some way since the days of social "laissez faire." Today we recognize better the problems of the transition to freedom. "After-care" programs, particularly by private agencies, are regarded as a vital part of the whole rehabilitation effort.

Justice Minister Fulton tells now of still more care in returning prisoners to the world. Inmates will be weaned to freedom by being allowed to make visits to the outside before their term has expired. The prisoner, accompanied by a "sponsor," will not only talk to prospective employers, but will renew relations with his family, sometimes attending social functions and sporting events.

Some perhaps will object that this is coddling instead of punishment. But if it is being soft to extend a helping hand, to take some practical steps to make the chances better that a man will not revert to his old ways, then let us have this kind of softness.

There will be some failures under the new scheme. But there were failures, terrible, tragic ones under the old dispensation. The Justice Department has taken a pioneering step. Out of humanity and cold practicality we hope that it succeeds.

Chomo Lungmo

(From the Manchester Guardian Weekly)

THE Chinese claim that Everest stands wholly in Chinese territory is a piece of effrontery supported by preposterous arguments. It is said, for instance, that all the earlier mountaineering expeditions sought permission from the Tibetan Government (now taken over by the Chinese Government) for leave to approach the mountain; naturally, since at that time the southern route was not open to explorers, and the only approach lay through Tibetan territory. The southern approach lies wholly through Nepal.

Another argument is that the mountain really bears a Chinese (i.e. Tibetan) name, and therefore must lie wholly in China. No one here has ever claimed that the mountain lies in Britain because for a century it has been known by the name of a British surveyor. In any case, the name on which the Chinese rely, Chomo Lungmo (there are various spellings), is only the name by which it was known on the Tibetan side; on the other, as the Prime Minister of Nepal has pointed out, it has the Nepalese name of Sagarmatha.

Moreover there is considerable doubt whether the name Chomo Lungmo refers to the mountain to the adjacent district; and in the passport granted to the first Everest Expedition in 1921 the name is spelled Chha-mo-lung-ma which (according to Dr. Dyhrenfurth) really means the Kama valley on the east side of Everest, and not the mountain at all.

A less flimsy ground for the claim is that Thyangboche monastery, on the south side of the watershed, was at one time spiritually subject to Rongbuk monastery, on the north side. The religious affiliations of the Sherpas with Tibet and Buddhism are well known, but to recognize spiritual authority as carrying with it temporal authority may land the Chinese in Queer Street.

But this argument brings out the point of the claim; it is not so much the mountain which the Chinese want as the populated territory beyond it.

The Packsack

OF GREGORY CLARK

THE expert driver is the one who realizes at all times how few expert drivers there are.

The truly expert driver is the one — and there are millions of him and her — who goes whooshing along in the fatuous assumption that all drivers are experts.

Last year in Canada, which surely has more space than most countries per capita in which to move around in safety, 3,213 were killed and 84,374 injured in 241,685 motor traffic accidents.

The chances are that the very great majority of those involved in this massive casualty list were drivers who considered themselves without question to be expert drivers. If you asked them, they would tell you so.

The chances are that a few, a very few, of those involved were in fact expert drivers who could not escape the folly of someone else. But they must have been rare exceptions.

All you have to do is picture in your mind the characteristic week-end highway, streaming in two directions with endless torrents of cars, each on the trail of another, overtaking, dodging, passing, and every single one of their drivers trusting to God that everybody else in the stampede is an expert who knows every split-second of each minute of each hour exactly what he is doing.

The casualty list measures the fat in all our heads.

Letters to the Editor

No Long Spoon

How true it is that the "old order changeth." No longer is it necessary to warn that "those who sup with the devil must use a long spoon;" the tidal wave of "love" for the "wrong" doer is indicative of the psychological protective curtain that is covering up the present fashion of "looting."

No longer do statistics stagger the mind, for the latter has slowly been trained to travel the single track. We have before us a statement told the Controllers' Institute of America, that 250 firms will go to the wall this year through thefts by both officers and workers. Employees will steal more than $4,000,000 a day mostly executives and supervisors.

The said company investigated $60,000,000 in theft losses last year and found the "bosses" stole 62 per cent of same.

So vanish the old warning that "he who takes what isn't his, when he's caught will go to prison." The blinkers are securely fastened and the "looters" increase and multiply, while justice goes to the circus.

At the birth of the "new order" the devil must have cornered the market of the bartered conscience.

EILEEN HART.

Chippewick, East Sooke, R.R. 1, Victoria, B.C.

Bank on the Flowers

On the way back from a journey south of the border we accidentally overheard a conversation between some American citizens returning home after a visit to our capital city.

Victoria was getting a going over (a dreamy old town) only some sunken gardens as an attraction, losing small industry to the mainland, a lack of enterprise, and so on.

Well, perhaps we could use a little more business initiative, but not in the line of iron works or steel mills, or heavy industry.

Lower Vancouver Island grows the most beautiful and abundant spring flowers and small fruit crops. With good salesmanship we could ship to the late spring wheat lands and maritimes, millions more of golden daffodils and tulips, luscious strawberries and raspberries, etc. This would increase employment.

From personal observations, to have our flowers on their breakfast table, while the ice is still on their ponds, would be a delightful interlude for thousands of Canadians who rarely see what we take in our stride as nothing unusual.

But that would need super-salesmen sponsored by the provincial government, to take pre-spring orders. By the two-dozen delivered C.O.D. and shipped via plane daily.

Provincial Secretary

Hit-Run Politician Resigns in Ontario

TORONTO (CP) — Dr. Mackinnon Phillips, cabinet minister since 1950, has resigned as provincial secretary, Premier Frost announced yesterday following a cabinet meeting.

Mr. Frost released a letter to him from Dr. Phillips in which the 61-year-old physician-minister said he "was resigning due to circumstances surrounding a traffic accident Jan. 26."

"I can quite understand that in addition to this matter being a matter of anguish for me it has been one of embarrassment to you and my colleagues," Dr. Phillips' letter said.

Dr. Phillips pleaded guilty April 28, through a lawyer, to a charge of failing to remain at the scene of an accident and was fined $200 in a Toronto magistrate's court. The minister had left the day before on a trip to Paris.

In his letter to the premier Dr. Phillips said:

"... I am deeply sorry. As a matter of fact the implication in this matter arose from a state of health and not from any drinking on my part.

"You have known me for years and I am not a drinking man, although I am not an abstainer. At the time of the occurrence I was very unwell."

Compacts Ordered After All

OTTAWA (CP) — Finance Minister Fleming confirmed Thursday that government departments have been directed to buy small cars wherever possible. The directive applies to Canadian-made, not imported compact cars.

Mr. Fleming said in the Commons that Wednesday he had told Paul Martin (L, Essex East) the treasury board had issued no such directive. He had since learned, however, that the directive came from the government's automobile committee, an inter-departmental body.

The object, he said, is to achieve economies in price and operations.

Italy, with its scenic beauty and historic attractions, has about 15,500,000 foreign tourists annually.

It Was Nothing Short of Revolution in Korea

A world-famous writer on Communism, Isaac Deutscher, was himself a prominent Polish Communist until he broke with Stalin in 1922. In addition to many books, his syndicated articles have been published in the press throughout the world. He has been a world news analyst on such London papers as The Economist and The Observer. This is the first of two articles.

By ISAAC DEUTSCHER

The situation in South Korea will not figure on the agenda of the Summit meeting in Paris on May 16. Unofficially, however, events are placing it there. Nearly seven years after the end of the Korean war, after a long and uneventful period of armistice, Korea may once again become a focus of international tension.

What has happened in Seoul, almost on the eve of the summit meeting, is nothing less than a revolution.

CHAIN OF EVENTS

The chain of events was touched off by relatively small student demonstrations, but these were submerged in an immense popular upheaval, under the force of which the whole administrative machinery broke down. The fury of hundreds and thousands of demonstrators drove the police from the streets and induced soldiers to hand over their tanks to the insurgents.

At the critical moment half a million people threateningly surrounded the presidential palace, and it was in the presence of this immense chorus that the tragedy of the Lee Ki-Poong family was enacted, and that the former vice-president, Rhee's chosen successor, and the villain of the piece, was assassinated by his own son, who was also Syngman Rhee's adopted son.

SEVERE SETBACK

Although American diplomatic intervention played its part in forcing Syngman Rhee's resignation, the crisis marks a severe setback to American influence in the Far East.

Since the last days of April

SYNGMAN RHEE
... in vacuum

the agitation has subsided and an appearance of normalcy has returned to Seoul. But despite the momentary calm, South Korea is in a flux, politically and socially; and many months must pass before any new regime can acquire stability.

The country's economy is in disarray; unemployment is rampant; discontent is pent-up; and feelings will run high during the forthcoming electoral campaign.

ONLY A SHADOW

Until now South Korea has had only a shadow of a two-party system: the Liberals formed Syngman Rhee's personal following rather than a party; and the Democrats, led by Huh Ching, head of the present caretaker government, have alternately been the Liberals' partners in government and the Opposition. (It was Syngman Rhee who, before his resignation, appointed Huh Chung to the present post.)

Both the Liberals and the Democrats have been pro-American, though Syngman Rhee's policy, intensely nationalist and anti-Japanese, brought him into conflict with the United States.

The state department, having at last decided to drop Syngman Rhee, is backing the Democrats. But already new parties are forming themselves, which are likely to acquire far larger popular support than either the Liberals or the Democrats, both looked upon as representing landed property and big business, can command. The orientation of these new parties in foreign policy is going to be of some international importance.

The new parties will not be complete newcomers. They are forming themselves out of the elements of older parties that have been banned or forced to lie low under Syngman Rhee's dictatorship. There were two such parties, the Progressives, banned in 1958, and the so-called Party of Democratic Renewal. Both appealed strongly to the middle and lower middle classes and the peasants; and probably they had some following in the working class as well.

that has already begun favors these parties, in whatever form they reconstitute themselves and however they may be renamed. It may be assumed that any government that were to try and rule the country without the backing of these elements would presently find itself suspended in the vacuum in which Syngman Rhee had found himself.

An international complication is bound to arise from the fact that both the Progressive and the Party of Democratic Renewal have been critical of Syngman Rhee's foreign policy and of his military and diplomatic commitments vis-à-vis the United States.

Arena Begun For Exposition

SEATTLE (AP)—Ground was broken Thursday for construction of a $1,000,000 coliseum, one of the main buildings of the Century 21 scientific exposition scheduled to open here in April, 1962.

A congratulatory telegram was read at the groundbreaking ceremony from President Eisenhower.

Dentist Shortage Acute in B.C.

There are not enough dentists in British Columbia to satisfy the demand for dental service, Dr. D. J. Yeo, dental health officer for Greater Vancouver, said yesterday.

Dr. Yeo, attending the B.C. Dental Association convention at the Empress, said there are about 630 dentists in B.C., an average of one dentist for every 2,300 persons. "Dental B.C.," he said, "can be treated."

Toothbrush Answer to Decay

The toothbrush, not toothpaste, is the answer to dental decay, according to Dr. Ainsley Thorson of St. Paul, Minn., a lecturer attending the B.C. Dental Association convention at the Empress Hotel.

Despite claims by advertising promoters that toothpaste can kill germs, these products act only as a cleanser, he said. "It's easy to kill germs in a test tube, but because germs multiply so rapidly in a person's mouth it is impossible to kill them all without destroying tissue."

The 60-year-old St. Paul dentist and lecturer at the University of Minnesota said it is the action of the toothbrush which loosens germs. He carries a toothbrush in his pocket so he can brush his teeth while reading a book or sitting in his car.

Between-meal nibblers are the persons who have the most trouble with decay, he said. Germs thrive on sugar, and there is no point in brushing your teeth after a meal if you are going to turn around and eat something sweet.

Chewing gum containing sugar is as harmful as candy, he said. It is healthier to chew paraffin, which dislodges germs but which contains no sugar for germs to feed on.

Dr. Thorson said it would be much better for dessert to be served first and the main course of a meal after it, because solid food helps clear sweets from the mouth. He admitted that he has a "sweet tooth," but rather than encourage decay in this manner he generally goes without dessert.

He advocates fluoridation of water as a means of reducing tooth decay among children, and said he would like to see the use of numerous assistants—as in an operating room—to increase dental production.

86 From Victoria Win UBC Degrees

Eighty-six Victoria students, graduates in all faculties at the University of British Columbia, will receive degrees at spring graduation ceremonies in Vancouver May 19 and 20. Four doctorates of philosophy were among the degrees awarded.

Ceremonies begin at 2:30 p.m. on both days in UBC armory. University president Dr. N. A. M. MacKenzie will act as chancellor on both occasions in the absence of Dr. A. E. Grauer, who is touring Russia with a group of Canadian business leaders.

On Thursday honorary degrees will be conferred on Sir Saville Garner, U.K. high commissioner to Canada; Gen. A. G. L. McNaughton, Canadian chairman of the International Joint Commission; and Henry G. Thode, vice-president of McMaster University.

On the same day doctor's degrees, master's degrees in arts, education, physical education, social work, and bachelor's degrees in social work, arts, science, home economics, physical education and education will be awarded.

The following day, Friday, will see honorary degrees go to Governor General George Vanier and Kenneth W. Taylor, deputy federal finance minister.

Also to be awarded on the second day are master's degrees in science, applied science, agriculture, business administration, and bachelor's degrees in applied science, architecture, agriculture, law, pharmacy, medicine, forestry and commerce.

First College Reunion Set

A reunion of former staff members and students of British Columbia's first college, Columbia College of New Westminster, will be held at 7 p.m., May 28, in Queen's Avenue United Church, New Westminster.

All ex-Columbians able to attend the gathering were urged to notify the registrar, Columbia College Alumni Association, Queen's Avenue United Church, 529 Queens, New Westminster.

23 Entries In Contest On Festival

Three lucky persons will be the winners of the festival contest being held by Victoria Chamber of Commerce's tourist trade group, in conjunction with Tourist Appreciation Week.

Deadline for entries is 5 p.m. today. A total of 23 entries has already been received.

Entrants are asked to suggest a festival for Victoria which can become as big a tourist draw as Seattle's Seafair.

Only stipulation is that the suggestions should be feasible—the TAW committee plans to take steps to hold the festival suggested in the winning entry.

B.C. Orange Lodge Will Convene Here

Members of the Loyal Orange Association will hold the 70th annual session of the Grand Lodge of British Columbia Wednesday and Thursday in the Orange Hall, Courtney Street.

Rev. T. H. McAllister, grand master, will preside at the business sessions, starting at 10 a.m. Wednesday. Prior to Wednesday's opening, there will be a church service at First United Church at 8:30 a.m. for the delegates, the women of the Ladies' Orange Benevolent Association, members of the Royal Black Chapter, and the general public.

Thursday night the Victoria County Lodge will entertain visiting delegates and friends at a banquet and dance at Lougheed's, 1406 Douglas.

The Grand Black Chapter of B.C. will convene Tuesday in the Orange Hall and the 37th session of the Ladies' Orange Benevolent Association will meet Tuesday in the Knights of Pythias Hall.

Youth Given Probation In Break-In

An 18-year-old Central Saanich youth was put on a year's probation and required to post a good-behavior bond for his part in a May 1 break-in of Hudson's Bay Company store. Eric Pedersen, 6332 Central Saanich, was told by Magistrate William Ostler to stay away from liquor during the probation period—"You are too young to drink and you cannot handle it."

The magistrate was commenting upon the comments of a probation report which he had requested before passing sentence.

Wheat from Russia was being offered in the United Kingdom at the equivalent of $1.40 a bushel in August, 1959.

Cuban Gunners Down U.S. Plane

HAVANA (UPI)—Cuban machine-gunners shot down a light American plane and killed the pilot on Havana's outskirts early yesterday in what was described as an attempt to fly four "war criminals" out of the country.

The pilot was Matthew Edward Duke, 42, of Trenton, N.J., and Palm Beach, Fla., former U.S. navy flier. His Piper Apache plane was riddled by bullets fired by more than 100 gunners in hiding.

Cuban authorities said papers found on Duke's body showed he made 33 previous flights into Cuba taking out an unknown number of "war criminals."

Cougars Remain in League; L.A., 'Frisco Delayed Year

IT BEATS ME

By Jim Tang

Nothing that has happened in the first 10 games—Victoria's faltering start resulting from a physically-unprepared club being unavoidably below full playing strength—has altered the pre-season impression that the Inter-City Lacrosse League is in for its closest-ever competition. It is difficult to find a trailer that even a four-way tie seems almost possible.

There hasn't been any undue amount of talent-shifting between seasons but the change which saw Jack Blonda leave New Westminster, Canadian champion for the past two years, to join a Nanaimo club which ended last season in a near-hopeless condition appears to have created a near-perfect balance.

New Westminster led last season with 40 points from the 30 league games. Nanaimo trailed with 24 points. On the thoroughly-reasonable presumption that New Westminster is five games poorer without the four-time league scoring champion and that his addition should mean six points more for Nanaimo, his transfer will at least level things off between the first and last-place clubs.

Last year's second and third place clubs—Vancouver and Victoria, respectively—were almost fifty-fifty clubs. Vancouver was just a shade over .500 lacrosse with 31 points. Victoria close enough with 25 points. On the reasoning that anything that these two clubs may lose from the apparent strengthening at Nanaimo they will pick up from the Blonda-less New Westminster entry they should at least come close to matching last season's performances. It adds up to a merry scramble likely to involve all four clubs and certain to involve the other three should one club manage to get a clear lead.

If a favorite's rating can be pinned on any club at this time it would have to be Nanaimo, and not altogether because of the presence of Blonda. The Up-Islanders were doing well enough last season until a general demoralization set in following the suspension of coach Don Ashbee. In missing the playoffs by a single point they lost five of their last six games and their final standing may have been misleading.

This season in addition to Blonda the Nanaimo club has gained in getting an experienced and levelheaded coach in Red McMillan, who must be rated a chance to fuse the sometimes-thorny individualism and professional outlook of his proven veterans into a one-for-all attitude.

There is also Archie Browning, who has indicated in early games that he has enough of his old-time ability left to help, and it seems that hard-playing Lisle Scott will be around for the full season. Tom McVie and Spud Morelli should have no trouble improving on their 1959 performances and if Don Sherry can get over injuries and match his 1958 play, Nanaimo could have enough to pull away.

But it may not be all smooth sailing. Missed from last year's club will be Gogie Stewart, Gary Moore and Jack Howe, whose combined total of 66 goals is just about what Blonda can be expected to score. Also on the debit side is the age of the Nanaimo club—the doubt that all of the many veterans who form the solid core of the club can go all the way without injuries or play at their best under the new get-tough refereeing. And the biggest question mark of all for Red is whether or not he can avoid the dissonance with which the Nanaimo club has long been afflicted.

Nanaimo has the "big" men necessary for championships—Blonda, MacKay, Ashbee, Fula and Dugan—and a pretty fair supporting cast. If they all stay healthy and happy, this is the team to beat.

There are, however, three teams capable of doing just that. All have a fair quota of calibre players and all have an edge in youth over Nanaimo. Where they may be hurting is that none of them appear to have anything to match the one-two punch of Blonda-MacKay, which could prove the difference.

Of the three clubs, I like to think that Victoria has the most potential for improvement over last season. One reason is that it did get to the playoff final last year with seven rookies who should be much better after a season of experience. Another is that import Paul Parnell, transferee Gary Moore and rookie John Hanson should at least make up for the loss of Bert Bertola, Derry Davies and Tom Druce.

Biggest worry about the Victoria club is whether or not it is to measure up defensively. Coach Norm Baker has good offensive balance and speed and youth. But some of his charges are not too strong defensively and others are not yet convinced that what they do when they haven't got the ball is as important in winning as what they do when they have it. What Baker's club does this season will depend on what it produces in spirit and defence.

New Westminster won't be the same without Blonda but Jake Proctor still has a solid club which has acquired the winning habit and which could find it can win without Blonda. Vancouver doesn't look improved over last season but should be equally as strong, particularly if coach Bobby Marsh should decide, as he may have to, to return to playing ranks.

And so we are back at where we started. The more you try and analyze it the closer it seems. Every game will be all-important and every mistake could cost a game. About the only way the guess the ICCL this year is to light on a club which seems most likely to fail. This guess says it will be Vancouver, an outfit which has had enough talent to win for the past two years but never has. In the kind of a battle this is shaping up to be, this lack of ability to win when it counts could be the difference.

GUESSING DEPARTMENT: Gorge and MacNuts in tonight's softball. And the Yankees, White Sox, Braves and Giants in the major baseball league features. Batting average to date: At bat 32, hits 22, percentage .671.

Victoria Cougars will remain in the Western Hockey League for at least the 1960-61 season under the operation of Jim Piggott, the Saskatoon contractor who owns the Victoria franchise.

The Cougars will play in an eight-team league which includes the other six clubs which played last season and Portland Buckaroos, a new entry which will be coached by Hal Laycoe, who was manager-coach of the Victoria club during the past season.

This was determined yesterday during the first day of the annual WHL meeting at Calgary. Both Winnipeg Warriors and Spokane Comets, which had been doubtful entries along with Victoria, signified their intention of carrying on for next season.

The above four clubs along with Edmonton, Calgary, Vancouver and Seattle will make up the WHL next season. As had been predicted, neither Los Angeles or San Francisco will be included for next season.

GET FRANCHISES

However, the two California cities were granted franchises and may be ready for the 1961-62 season. Their acceptance is contingent upon both being able to furnish suitable playing dates and the franchise-holders, as yet undecided, being acceptable to the league.

Piggott, who was, and presumably still is, anxious to move to Los Angeles, was closeted much of yesterday with Joe Dukowski, manager of Victoria's Memorial Arena. Word that Victoria was to remain in the league indicated that satisfactory rental arrangements had been made.

There are indications of two

Lights Too Bright Didn't See Right

GROSSINGER, N.Y. (AP) — when Johansson was jolted by a right hand thrown by a new sparring partner, Cotez Stewart.

The blow seemed to stun the Swedish fighter briefly. He refused to go through the usual bag punching and rope skipping exercises with which he normally winds up his drills. "I didn't see the blow coming because of the lights," Johansson said. "No more lights when I work that's taking shots with bright lights orders."

Green Light For Pros

SEATTLE (AP) — The University of Washington gave the green light Thursday for a professional football game in Husky Stadium Aug. 6 between the San Francisco 49ers and the Dallas Cowboys.

Former Washington All-American Don Heinrich will quarterback the cowboys, new entry in the National Football League.

Western Swimmers Eyeing Rome Trip

By JIM PEACOCK

VANCOUVER (CP) — The prospect of a trip to Rome is quickening the pace in the pools of the Pacific Coast as British Columbia swimmers step up training programs, with eyes on the 1960 Olympic Games in August.

Their coaches expect them to fill at least half of the 10 berths on the team Canada will send to contest swimming and diving events. Ontario and Quebec likely will share the rest.

The Olympic team will be chosen at the combined Canadian championships and Olympic trials in Winnipeg July 12-14, when British Columbia will field at least 13 strong contenders.

Coaches Ted Simpson of the Vancouver Amateur Swim Club and Howard Firby of the Dolphin Club rate as top contenders Vancouver's Bill Slater, Marg Iwasaki, Mary Stewart and Ed Cazalet, and Victoria's Bob Wheaton.

All have had international experience and Slater, 20, now attending university in Philadelphia, was fifth in the 1,500-metres in the 1956 Olympics, and fourth in the same event at the 1958 British Empire Games.

Wheaton, 18, ranks with Slater in the international class. A backstroke specialist, the Victoria College student was third behind two Australians at the last British Empire Games, and reached the backstroke finals in the Pan-American Games last year.

Marg Iwasaki is a 17-year-old sprinter who took a fourth-place in three events at the Pan-American Games last year.

at the Pan-American Games—Stewart, 14, also a sprinter, took sixth place in the 100-metres butterfly in the Pan-American swim, in which he was the youngest competitor, at 13 years of age. He also helped the relay team to a second-place finish. Cazalet, 17, with ability in freestyle and backstroke, showed well with the men's relay team.

The up-coast community of Ocean Falls will have at least one contender—Pat Huffman, 17, Canadian breast-stroke champion in the past who has shown well in training this year.

Strong eastern contenders include Bonnie Benson and Sandra Scott of Toronto in breast-stroke and freestyle sprints; Richard Pound and Steve Rabinovich of Montreal, respectively in sprints and breast-stroke, and Tom Verth of Toronto, who swims 100-metre and 400-metre freestyle.

Sara Barber of Brantford, Ont., who established herself as a fine competitor in the 1954 Empire Games, and Cameron Grout of Montreal, 100-metre freestyle swimmer in the 1958 Empire Games and last year's Pan-American, are other contenders.

Western Swimmers Eyeing Rome Trip

By JIM PEACOCK

VANCOUVER (CP) — The prospect of a trip to Rome is quickening the pace in the pools of the Pacific Coast as British Columbia swimmers step up training programs, with eyes on the 1960 Olympic Games in August.

Their coaches expect them to fill at least half of the 10 berths on the team Canada will send to contest swimming and diving events Ontario and Quebec likely will share the rest.

The Olympic team will be chosen at the combined Canadian championships and Olympic trials in Winnipeg July 12-14, when British Columbia will field at least 13 strong contenders.

Coaches Ted Simpson of the Vancouver Amateur Swimming Club and Howard Firby of the Dolphin Club rate as top contenders Vancouver's Bill Slater, Marg Iwasaki, Mary Stewart and Ed Cazalet, and Victoria's Bob Wheaton.

All have had international experience and Slater, 20, now attending university in Philadelphia, was fifth in the 1,500-metre in the 1956 Olympics, and fourth in the same event at the 1958 British Empire Games.

Wheaton, 18, ranks with Slater in the international class. A backstroke specialist, the Victoria College student was third behind two Australians at the last British Empire Games, and reached the backstroke finals in the Pan-American Games last year.

Marg Iwasaki is a 17-year-old sprinter who took a fourth-place in three events at the Pan-American Games—the 100-metre freestyle and butterfly, and the 200-metre freestyle, and now is doing well in the longer distances.

Stewart, 14, also a sprinter, took sixth place in the 100-metre butterfly in the Pan-American swims, in which he was the youngest competitor, at 13 years of age. He also helped the relay team to a second-place finish. Cazalet, 17, with ability in freestyle and backstroke, showed well with the men's relay team.

The up-Coast community of Ocean Falls will have at least one contender—Pat Huffman, 17, Canadian breast-stroke champion in the past who has shown well in training this year.

Strong eastern contenders include Bonnie Benson and Sandra Scott of Toronto in breast-stroke and freestyle sprints; Richard Pound and Steve Rabinovich of Montreal, respectively in sprints and breast-stroke, and Tom Verth of Toronto, who swims 100-metre and 400-metre freestyle.

Sara Barber of Brantford, Ont., who established herself as a time competitor in the 1954 Empire Games, and

Slimmer slacks shorter coat— all-new thoroughbreds, bearing the original and authentic name MACINTOSH

imported from England

This is the self-supporting waistline

London tailored, with a slimmer look, Macintosh self-supporting slacks this year come in a new variety of shades of superb all wool worsted, with the same quality and fit that have made Macintosh slacks world famous.

"Flair without flamboyance" aptly describes the new Macintosh, tailored a little shorter for the young at heart. With this supremely comfortable coat, Macintosh—the originators of the classic style in all-weather wear—again display their pre-eminence in outdoor fashion.

Stylish yet practical, you can even wash-and-wear this quality coat, tailored from the finest material, and weatherproofed as only Macintosh can do it. See MACINTOSH all-weather coats in the best stores... and on the best-dressed people.

Coats in all wool gabardine; cotton gabardine and fine poplin both long staple Egyptian yarn. New 1-cotton gabardine to "wash-at-home" up to 12 times, yet retains its weatherproofing. Priced from $32.50 to $79.50. Self supporting all British wool worsted flannel slacks with a choice of 8 popular shades. About $20.00 to $27.50.

If Bill Fails

It's War or Quit For Continentals

NEW YORK (AP)—Founder Bill Shea said Thursday his Continental Baseball League has one of two alternatives if the pending Congressional bill to curb the major leagues' alleged monopoly fails to pass:

"Declare war or quit."

Shea, in a press conference, charged organized baseball with throwing roadblocks in the Continental League's efforts to operate. He insisted, however, that the original

April, 1961, opening was still the target date.

Shea, critical of the majors' motives ever since he started trying to bring another major league team to New York, reiterated his support of Senator Estes Kefauver's bill to limit control of players by the big leagues.

"The Kefauver bill is the only hope the Continental League has of getting players and going into business," he said. "The majors have been fighting us with the strongest weapon they have... delay, time is the thing that is hitting us in every direction. If the bill fails, it doesn't mean the end of the Continental League. It simply means that our only alternatives are war or quit."

Shea declined to state specifically that the Continental League would go outlaw but it appeared obvious that is what he meant.

Shea said his organization has reached an impasse in its negotiations with the International League and American Association regarding indemnities for seven franchises. They are Buffalo and Toronto in the IL and Denver, Houston, Dallas-Fort Worth, and Minneapolis and St. Paul in the AA.

"The IL demand of $850,000 for each club is outrageous," he said. "This ridiculous demand is proof they don't want us in baseball. The American Association has made it even more obvious. They told us they don't want to discuss the situation with us until after the season."

Billy Maxwell Leads Colonial Golf Meet

FORT WORTH, Tex. (AP)—Billy Maxwell shot a three-under-par 67 Thursday to take the first-round lead in the $30,000 Colonial National invitational golf tournament.

Maxwell had a one-stroke lead over the field of 54. Par took a beating from nine players over the 7,041-yard Colonial Country Club course.

Ben Hogan, five-time winner of the tournament, and Johnny Palmer, champion here in 1954, were among a group shooting 69s.

Arnold Palmer, the year's leading money winner and the favorite, had a one-over-par 71.

Tied at 69 with Palmer and Hogan were Ken Nagle of Australia, Don January, Doug Sanders, Ken Venturi and Gene Littler. At par were Julius Boros, Mason Rudolph, Doug Ford, Bill Collins and Billy Casper.

Stan Leonard of Vancouver and six others were tied at 34th place with 74s. Leonard fired 36 going out and came back in 38.

Zero Hour Near For Conference

LONDON (CP)—Zero hour meeting is desirable—perhaps early next year—but said his proposal was not made in a bid to avert a crisis over South Africa's race policy.

The evening efforts to reach some compromise solution of the most difficult internal problem the family of nations has faced since Lord Rosebery first used the word "Commonwealth" in the 19th century came after a formal afternoon session in which ministers only took part.

The restricted meeting was devoted wholly to drafting the communiqué.

Meanwhile, Dag Hammarskjöld, secretary-general of the United Nations, arrived here Thursday night to discuss South Africa's racial policies with External Affairs Minister Eric Louw.

Historians do not pin-point any one year for the start of celebrations of Christmas as a Christian anniversary.

Scott Bursts Into Song

By TED SHACKLEFORD

City council yesterday took on aspects of a comic opera—including words and music—when second-hand dealer W. A. Scott serenaded city solicitor T. P. O'Grady with gems from "The Mikado."

Leaning over Mr. O'Grady, and in true though slightly husky tenor, Mr. Scott sang: "Behold the Lord High Executioner!"

A personage of noble rank and title—
A dignified and potent officer,
Whose functions are particularly vital!
Defer, defer,
To the Lord High Executioner!

"Taken from the county jail
By a set of curious chances;
Liberated then on bail
On my own recognizances;
Waived by a favoring gale
As one sometimes is in trances,
To a height that few can scale.
Save by long and weary dances.

Man Remanded In Credit Case

VANCOUVER (CP)—Donald Larson, 32, was remanded in custody yesterday until May 17 on charges of obtaining credit by false pretences.

Larson was arrested in Victoria and returned to Vancouver after a $19,000 cabin cruiser chartered here with a worthless $150 cheque turned up in Victoria.

She Wove Dream To Escape Reds

For 16 years Mrs. Emilia Kallas worked and saved and dreamed of escape from her Russian-dominated homeland, Estonia. Now she is in Victoria, ready to begin a new life at the age of 62.

Mrs. Kallas arrived in Victoria recently to live with her daughter, Mrs. Maimu Raig, her son-in-law, Harold Raig, and her grandson, nine-year-old Thomas. Because she speaks no English, she told the story of her 16-year dream through her daughter.

"I did weaving and saved the money I made from selling them, but it had to be done secretly because sale of such things under Russia are taxed so high it is pointless to try."

She applied for her visa 2½ years ago, but nothing came of it. Then, with help from Mrs. Raig through the Canadian embassy, she tried again and was successful.

"There are more Russians in Estonia than there are Estonians," she said. "There are a few older people getting out, very few. They never let the young people out."

"But things are so bad, even the Communists want to escape."

His Worship Fan of B.C.

British Columbia has a new fan—the Lord Mayor of Westminster, London.

His worship, Gordon Pirie, has spent a week in B.C., and while lunching with Premier Bennett yesterday admitted that he "loved it."

In B.C. to take part in New Westminster's centennial celebrations, he arrived in Victoria yesterday, leaving later by plane for a visit to Port Alberni.

'Exploiter' List Has 73 Names

TORONTO (CP)—Italian workers Thursday added another 33 names to a list of blacklisted contractors they claim exploit immigrant employees. Six weeks ago the workers submitted the names of 40 contractors to the attorney-general's department.

The workers charged the 33 contractors pined with failing to give vacation pay.

Zoo Lacks Room For Kangaroos

VANCOUVER (CP)—Alan Best, curator of the Stanley Park zoo, said he would be unable to take kangaroos, but he would be delighted with some Australian rock wallabies.

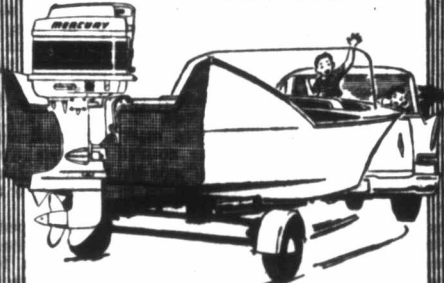

He said kangaroos would require a special enclosure.

Show Business

By Dick Williams

When Barry Fitzgerald came to Hollywood and became famous overnight after co-starring with Ring Crosby in "Going My Way," he acted, talked and dressed much as he appeared on the screen.

One evening he showed up at a lavish party wearing an old sweater, a slim jim tie and bicycle clips on his trouser cuffs. He sat alone in a corner watching the sleekly-dressed party guests.

"My, my, my," the Irish actor enthused to a friend who happened by, "Such a lovely party. I've never seen a friendlier bunch. Salt of the earth, all of them. Friends I haven't seen in years."

The friend raised his eyebrows. "Why don't you go up and talk to some of them, Barry?"

"Talk to these people?" roared Fitzgerald. "I wouldn't think of it!"

Robert Garnier, the French poet who died in 1600, had a notable career as a lawyer and public orator.

Second CBC Network Possibility for TV

By DON HANRIGHT

EDMONTON (CP)—The possibility of a second CBC television network across Canada is being explored by the Board of Broadcast Governors.

At the outset such a plan would involve dividing the present CBC television network package between competing TV stations in the same city. But conceivably it could develop into a doubling of the present scale of CBC program production.

CBC Itself Opposed

Reaction to this suggestion is being elicited by the BBC from the five applicants appearing before the board here this week in support of their bids for a licence to operate Edmonton's second TV station.

The publicly-owned CBC itself one of the applicants, appears to be solidly against

Classroom TV 'Moderately' Successful

LETHBRIDGE (CP)—Six series of television programs used for instruction in Lethbridge separate schools were moderately successful, separate school superintendent R. A. Kimmitt reported.

He told the separate school board Wednesday night while teachers are not "standing up and cheering about television in the classroom," they are coming to appreciate it more.

A summary of program ratings of the programs by teachers who had used them reported 15 high rating, 20 medium ratings and two low ratings.

The most successful series was entitled "Science About Us," said Mr. Kimmitt. It was presented to Grade 4, 5 and 6 pupils.

Other series which appeared on Trans-Canada television as part of the classroom television experiment were: Rhythm and melody, children of other lands, for Grades 2 and 3; The Face of Canada, for Grades 4, 5 and 6, and current events, where history was made, for Grade 7.

"This experiment exemplifies increasing interest in school television," said Mr. Kimmitt.

One-Third Boost Asked In Veteran Allowances

OTTAWA (CP)—The Canadian Corps Association requested on Thursday a one-third increase in war veterans allowances.

The request, made in a submission to the Commons estimates committee, would raise the maximum single allowance to $1,280 a year from $960 and the married allowance to $1,920 from $1,440.

The allowances are paid to needy veterans and are subject to a means test.

The submission also asked that the maximum permissible annual income—including earnings—of recipients of allowances be increased to $1,740 a year from $1,160 for married recipients and to $1,500 from $1,080 for single veterans.

the idea, J. Alphonse Oulmet, corporation president, told the board Tuesday he can't give a categorical "no" to the possibility because it still is being considered by the CBC board of directors. But he thought network-splitting would be impractical.

However, two of the private applicants heard Wednesday—Northgate Broadcasting Company Limited and Edmonton Video Limited—both agreed with BGC counsel Graeme Haig that it might be possible to share the CBC network programs with the existing private station here, CFRN-TV which already is a CBC affiliate.

How would the programs be allocated? This is the big question in the CBC's corporate mind. Which of the two local stations would carry National Hockey League games? Which would be given the top-rated American shows now distributed by the CBC?

Despite the CBC skepticism, the governors are in a position to bring about a dual network if they are satisfied it would work. Under the 1958 Broadcasting Act the BGC has the authority to require any station—radio or TV—to carry CBC programs.

Tourists To Get Lessons

OTTAWA (UPI)—Northern Affairs Minister Hamilton said yesterday a plan was in progress for the education of American tourists who resent paying exchange on U.S. bills and coins in Canada.

Mr. Hamilton told the House of Commons the government, the Canadian Tourist Association and the chartered banks were getting together on the problem.

He said U.S. tourists would be told the reasons behind a recent bank decision to extend exchange to coins, which previously were accepted at par with Canadian silver.

John Garland suggested the banks accept U.S. coins at par during the tourist season. His question was ruled out of order and Mr. Hamilton didn't reply.

The U.S. imports 300,000 Australian kangaroo skins annually, chiefly to make "uppers" for shoes.

500,000 Acres of Island's Nimpkish Valley Turned Over to Forest Firm

Approval of a Canadian Forest Products Ltd. tree farm licence application covering half a million acres of the Nimpkish Valley on North Vancouver Island was announced by Lands and Forests Minister R. G. Williston yesterday.

The area covered by the licence runs from the headwaters of the Nimpkish River to the sea, a distance of approximately 65 miles.

About 250,000 "productive" acres are embodied in the vast 500,000-acre tract of valley land and the sustained-yield capacity is estimated at 20,000,000 cubic feet per year.

Approval of the application means that the area will be reserved from other alienation for a period of one year, forest officials explained, pending submission of an acceptable working plan by the company. Sustained-yield potential of the area is said to be about 45 per cent of CFF's plant requirements.

In announcing approval yesterday, Mr. Williston pointed out that the government has reserved for itself the right to withdraw from the area those portions deemed desirable for public recreation.

He said that up to the point of licence approval no detailed study of the recreational potential had been made. Such a study will be launched shortly and completed as soon as possible.

Recreation Minister Earl C. Westwood said later.

Mr. Williston said that approval of the licence would have no effect upon what appears to be "the most practical route" of a proposed North Vancouver Island highway along the Nimpkish River.

Conditions under which approval has been granted, he stated, "adequately covers this point."

Annual cutting plans to be prepared by the company will have to take into consideration the withdrawal clause in order to receive final approval, he added.

Here's Sample of News If Council Goes Secret

If city council adopts the secrecy bylaw which it discussed yesterday (See below) the only information legally available to the press would be the minutes of committee meetings.

This copy of the official minutes covering discussion of the bylaw in council yesterday would be a sample of the type of information that would be available to the public after committee meetings:

"On a motion by Ald. McLean, seconded by Ald. Ramsay, the bylaw was introduced."

"On a motion by Ald. McLean, seconded by Ald. Ramsay, the bylaw was read a first time."

"On a motion by Ald. Mc-Lean, seconded by Ald. Ramsay, the bylaw be read a second time it was put and bylaw complete without amendment."

"On motion the report of the committee was adopted by council."

"The bylaw then was read a third time, and on a motion by Ald. McLean, seconded by Ald. Ramsay, was then passed."

given if Mr. Hunter is found to be correct.

Ald. McLean's motion to read the bylaw was seconded by Ald. Hugh Ramsay. Other aldermen who voted in favor of the measure were Mrs. Lily Wilson, Elmer McEwen and Millard Mooney.

Opponents were Ald. Geoffrey Edgelow, Ald. Austin Curtis and Acting Mayor Arthur Dowell.

During discussion Ald. McEwen opposed the bylaw but he voted for it.

Given Three Readings by Council

Secrecy Bylaw Introduced While Mayor Scurrah Away

Support Insufficient City Clerk Warns

In the absence of Mayor Percy Scurrah, who opposes the measure, Ald. Rev. J. L. W. McLean introduced his secrecy bylaw in city council yesterday.

The bylaw, which would exclude reporters and the public from council committee meetings, was given three of the four readings needed for adoption by council, over a warning by city clerk M. F. Hunter that it had received insufficient support to become law.

Normally, fourth and final reading of the bylaw would be given at the next meeting of city council, which will be attended by Mayor Scurrah, but the reading will not be that the committees may exclude the press.

"This is not a secrecy move and, if this bylaw is passed, after each committee meeting will be held a press conference."

He ridiculed suggestions that the new bylaw would allow committees to carry out council business in private, because of the "press conferences" after each committee meeting.

Ald. McLean suggested some committee members are "inhibited" by the presence of reporters and others slant remarks because of the presence of the press.

Scurrah Was Absent

When Ald. McLean moved to have the bylaw considered, Acting Mayor Dowell pointed out that Mayor Scurrah was absent.

"We all know how the mayor feels about this. I would suggest it be held up until he is here," he said.

"I don't see any reason for that," Ald. McLean retorted. "There will be plenty of opportunity to discuss it further."

"The new publicity bylaw suggests the committees may invite the press," he said. "The present bylaw reads in effect that the committees may exclude the press."

Ald. McLean suggested some committee members are "inhibited" by the presence of reporters and others slant remarks because of the presence of the press.

In Public Interest

Ald. Edgelow told council he opposed the bylaw in the interests of the public.

"I have been on council six years where Ald. McLean hasn't been on six months," he said. "I have been on council where the press was excluded from committee meetings (during Mayor Claude Harrison's term) and it was not in the best interests of the public."

He said different members of the committees which met secretly gave information to the press and such information was colored by personal opinions.

"I think the public likes to know how its representatives grapple and deal with matters that come before them. This is public business. These are the taxpayers' affairs."

He mentioned the recent proposal to sell part of The Lake Park to the B.C. Electric which was reported from a committee meeting, and pointed out that the reports enabled council to find out waiting time.

"Publicity on the city's interests in their infancy is in the public interest."

Not Secrecy Move

Ald. Ramsay also protested that the bylaw was not a "secrecy" move and said many municipalities across Canada conduct business behind closed doors.

He suggested that following committee meetings reporters could obtain their information from official minutes recorded during the meeting. (See above story.)

Other comments included: Ald. Curtis: "I think, by and large, we are very well served by the press."

Ald. McEwen: "I feel we, as a city council, cannot operate without full support and cooperation of the press, but..."

Ald. Mooney: "I think it is proper and right to have the privilege to ask the press to attend, rather than to ask them to leave."

Ald. Mrs. Wilson: "It would please me to invite the press to committee meetings. It does not please me to ask them to leave."

On second reading of the bylaw Mr. Hunter informed Acting Mayor Dowell that the bylaw had failed. He said that it should have a two-thirds majority to pass on the second reading.

City solicitor T. P. O'Grady disputed Mr. Hunter's opinion.

B.C. Offices Shut May 23

All provincial government offices, except the museum will be closed May 23 for the Victoria Day holiday.

Museum hours will be: Saturday, 9 a.m. to noon and 1.10 to 5 p.m.; Sunday, 1 to 5 p.m.; and Monday, 9 a.m. to noon and 1.10 to 5 p.m.

Rat Tales 'Good' Official Thinks

Friday 13th Doesn't Scare Him

Being a well-known bad luck symbol himself, this black cat isn't too worried about spilling salt or standing on a crack, but cautious humans aren't encouraged to try either today. It's Friday the 13th, and just to be on the safe side, perhaps you should avoid the cat, too. (Colonist photo.)

Land Board Entitled To Opinion

Victoria Real Estate Board is entitled to its own opinion about the value of publicity relating to the area's rat problem, Dr. A. N. Beattie, medical health officer for Saanich and South Vancouver Island Health Unit, said yesterday.

A rat series in the Colonist "is stirring up interest, and from our point of view, that's good," he said. "Drawing the attention of people to the need of calling the health department, if they are having trouble with rats, is important."

SCANDALOUS

William Bailey, outgoing president of the Victoria Real Estate Board, said Wednesday that "I feel Victoria is a very pleasant place to live and it's scandalous that these reports should go into papers drawing attention to the weaknesses rather than the advantages of Victoria."

"I don't know what effect the publicity has had on real estate or tourists," said Dr. Beattie. He believed that Mr. Bailey was worried about the possibility of Victoria becoming known to outsiders as "a rat centre," and he said he can see the other man's point.

REDUCE RATS

"From our point of view, we welcome hearing from people who have trouble with rats. We want to reduce the rat population and any publicity that gets people to call us is good publicity," he said.

H. G. H. Watts, senior sanitary inspector of the Saanich and South Vancouver Island Health Unit, said yesterday that the Colonist series "certainly has made people more conscious of the presence of rats. We've had 34 calls this week."

Objection to Noise

Fair Midway Under Fire Once Again

The midway section of the Jaycee fair came under fire again in city council yesterday when a letter was received calling the carnival a "dam nuisance."

Signed by Mrs. M. Court, 840 Pembroke Street, the letter said all the residents of the street alongside the midway area protested against it.

Two Taxis Oppose Fare Hike

Two city taxi firms have opposed an application by 10 other firms, asking for an increase in fares.

The conflicting briefs were read to city council yesterday and referred to council's finance committee for consideration and a recommendation.

But the application for the increase drew criticism from Ald. Elmer McEwen.

"Why should council fix prices for taxis?" he asked. "Why shouldn't one raise prices if he wants..."

The application asks for fares to be set at 50 cents for the first quarter mile and 10 cents for each additional quarter mile, plus $4 an hour waiting time.

Present fare schedule is 55 cents for the first third of a mile, 10 cents for each additional third of a mile and $3 an hour waiting time.

$633 'Bonus' For Warren

Victoria's former tourist commissioner, George I. Warren, yesterday received an unexpected cheque for $633.23 from Victoria Rotary Club dinner chairman Stuart Keate.

A final statement by auditor Gordon Holmes on a March 31 dinner, where Mr. Warren was given two round-trip tickets to London, a cheque for $1,200 and a further cheque for $100 from J. Carl Pendray, showed that an additional $633.23 came in for Mr. Warren during and after the meeting.

Stop Signs For Ryan

City council yesterday moved to have "Stop" signs placed on Ryan Street, where it intersects with Scott Street.

The intersection has been the scene of numerous traffic accidents, including a fatality which occurred last year.

Residents took up a petition, demanding that some type of traffic control be installed at the intersection, following the last accident recently.

Arena Gets New Floor

A Vancouver firm has been given a $31,406 contract to install a new floor in Memorial Arena over the top of the present concrete surface.

City council yesterday accepted the tender, submitted by J. and E. Hall and Co. Ltd.

Council also moved to have the cost of the work taken from the arena reserve account.

Back Hurt In Crash

A 19-year-old pedestrian was treated for back injuries and discharged from St. Joseph's Hospital yesterday afternoon after being in collision with a car at Broad and View. Roberts Hall, 3490 Ripon, was taken to hospital in the police ambulance. Driver of the car was Douglas R. Grover, 825 Jasmine.

Marriage of the 'Ys'

"Marriage ceremony" of the Victoria YMCA and YWCA took place last night immediately after the YWCA voted in favor of amalgamating the two organizations. Here Mrs. K. O. Wright, president of the YWCA, and YMCA president Dr. A. F. McGill, whose group voted for amalgamation Wednesday, perform the cake-cutting ceremony. (Colonist photo.)

Foul Bay Breakwater Project Approved

Construction of a breakwater at Foul Bay was approved by city council yesterday as a long-range project.

The recommendation that council take this action came in the report of the public works committee.

Ald. Geoffrey Edgelow, chairman of the committee, told council he did not feel council should take more action than merely approving the breakwater for inclusion in its long-range plan for capital improvements.

He pointed out that a breakwater at Foul Bay would cost close to $1,000,000 and said the Turkey Head breakwater, recently constructed by the federal government at Oak Bay, had been advocated some 50 years ago.

"Perhaps, if we support this now, our children's children will get it," he said.

Your Problems

By Ann Landers

Dear Ann: Every Saturday night five married couples (all of us middle-aged) play poker together. This club was formed 10 years ago.

I happen to have a darned good figure and am one of those lucky gals who can eat anything and not show it. One plumpish member who has been on a diet all her life (and is still fat) is jealous of me. Last Saturday I was eating candy between hands (as usual) and she bellowed "How much do you weigh, Agnes?" I told her I'd been around 118 for years. She replied belligerently, "I'm sick of that malarky. You're 125 if you're an ounce."

I was terribly embarrassed that she would make such a scene and refused. My husband said I should have gotten on the scale and proved her wrong. When we reached home I weighed myself and found I was exactly 117 pounds. Would I have lost dignity getting on the scale in front of everyone? What would you have done in my place, Ann Landers?—A. D. Z.

Dear A. D. Z.: A poker player must show his hand if he wants to win the pot you should excuse the expression. I would have removed my scale and said, "I'm calling your bluff. Get on!"

Wanted to Be Blonder

Dear Ann Landers: I'm 13 and in jail. I don't mean the outside world for two weeks county jail or anything like that. I mean my father has set up rules that are so strict I might as well be behind bars. I'm a nice-looking girl with long blonde hair. I tried to make it blonder in front by using peroxide. I know I did wrong but how a much punishment should a person have to take anyway? I have to stay inside except to go to school, church, for this music lesson or to the library. This is a rule until my hair is all grown out natural in front.

Entitled to Bedroom?

Dear Ann Landers: Our daughter is 21 and makes $220 a month in take-home pay. She pays $15 a week for room and board and complains that it's too much. She carries her lunch and eats every meal at home. Dora got herself engaged to a boy she met at work. He's polite and quiet but has no money saved. He drives a car and it seems to keep him broke. The big problem is this: Dora says when a girl gets married she's entitled to the bedroom furniture in her room. I never heard of this. Have you?

We are paying for the wedding and think this is enough. If you say we are supposed to give her the bedroom set we will, but I want to hear it from you first.—MOTHER OF THE BRIDE.

Dear Mother: I know of no "rule," either written or implied, that says the father gives away the bedroom set with the bride. It's strictly a matter of choice—the parents' choice, that is.

To learn the booby-traps of teenage drinking, write for Ann Landers' booklet, "Teenage Drinking," enclosing with your request 20 cents in coin and a large, self-addressed, stamped envelope. "Ann Landers" will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Tips for Parents

Neighborhood Play Banishes Shyness

By HELEN R. HEWSON

A young mother writes, "Recently my husband and I were invited to take our two children, age two years and 10 months, for a Sunday visit to the home of a business acquaintance. I was delighted. We moved to this district recently and I have been too busy with my babies to make friends. "When we arrived we found that our hosts had a sweet little daughter about 2½ years old, someone to play with our children. But alas, our baby, who is very shy with strangers, howled all the time we were there and the two children fought. "The sweet little girl was a little barbarian who slapped and pushed and screamed hysterically. Our little boy was terrified. "I am sorry to say my husband and I have been quarrelling about this episode. He declares our boy should be out playing with other children, even the rough ones. "I think he is just a baby yet and I am afraid he will be hurt. Another year will be soon enough for him to be learning to hold his own with other children. "Which of us is right?"

You and your husband are both partly right. Differences should be settled on the basis of what is best for the child.

It is much easier to decide this when you know the pattern of child development. You will find much helpful information in Dr. Spock's book, "Baby and Child Care." The aggressive two-to-three-year-old is not a young barbarian. Small children who are just beginning to play together treat each other as they do objects that are in their way. They push and shove, but the response of their playmates and the help of friendly adults teaches them to have some regard for the other fellow. The art is getting along with others is learned in the give and take of neighborhood play.

Help your little boy to meet his neighbors. Get a sand box with pails and shovels, big empty cartons, a ball to toss and roll, and invite the other children in to your backyard, one or two at a time. Let your supervision be casual and friendly. Invite your Sunday friends to your house after your little boy has had some experience playing with other children. Swish such items as shower curtains and toaster covers in a solution of baking soda and water. Also wash formica table tops and plastic furniture upholstery with the solution. To make the solution, add three tablespoons of baking soda to one quart of water. Surface spots can be rubbed off with dry soda.

Last year, during a visit to Toronto, Mrs. George Austin, 4482 Tyndall Avenue, accidentally came across the address of a cousin she had not heard of for many years. The cousin, Mr. Albert Panting, is presently visiting Victoria and is reunited with Mrs. Austin, left, and her two sisters, Mrs. J. Seath and Mrs. H. R. McDonald, both of Oak Avenue, for the first time in 54 years.

Curling Trophies Awarded At Ladies' Annual Banquet

Victoria Ladies Curling Club, Afternoon Division held an annual banquet Wednesday evening at the Curling Rink. During the year 32 new members joined this thriving club, which started several years ago with just 27 members. Seated at the head table, which was centred with a bowl of tall blue iris, red tulips and white narcissi, were Mrs. Betty Wills, director of the newly formed Dominion Ladies Curling Association, Mrs. Isabel Walkey, wife of president of Victoria Curling Club, Mrs. Eve Tang, vice-president of Evening Ladies Division of Victoria Curling Club, Mrs. Norma McBride, vice-president of Sunday afternoon ladies Commercial Curling Club, Mrs. Ruby Bell, president, Mrs. Freda Tarves, past president, Mrs. L. Walls, Mrs. E. Leach, Mrs. G. Blowey and Mrs. D. Russell. Trophies were presented by Mrs. Wills and Mrs. Tarves to the winning rinks of the year. Dunstan Trophy was received by Mrs. Walkey, skip, and her rink, Mrs. J. Turner, Mrs. E. Watt, and Mrs. L. MacLean. Runners-up were Mrs. M. Merryweather, skip, and her rink, Mrs. N. Olson, Mrs. J. Hearn and Mrs. E. Gabriel. Mrs. R. Robbins' rink was awarded the Tarves Trophy. In the rink are Mrs. Walls, Mrs. D. Barron and Mrs. L. Eve Tang, vice-president of Future. Runners-up were Mrs. R. Jackson, Mrs. E. Martin, Mrs. L. Morrison and Mrs. E. Brooks. Lelecheur Trophy went to Mrs. Robbins and rink, Mrs. E. Hovey, Mrs. N. Cole and Mrs. G. Dunlop. Runners-up were Mrs. Cook, Mrs. M. Smith, Mrs. H. Robertson and Mrs. E. Burrows. New president of the club, elected during the evening was Mrs. Daggie Russell. Other officers include Mrs. R. Jackson, first vice-president; Mrs. M. Westaway, second; Mrs. J. Erwin, secretary; Mrs. H. Robertson, treasurer; Mrs. T. Cook, auditor, and Mrs. E. Leach, zone representative.

Bird Watchers Provide Fun at Dental Lunch

Wives of Victoria dentists assume Victorians dress, were headed by Mrs. Carron B. Jameson under the title of the Foul Bay Bird Watchers' Club. They conducted a meeting after the luncheon when Mrs. Jameson made good use of the gavel.

Among the many amusing things decided at the meeting were to set aside $1.94 for the steaming of the Queen's bust in the park and a letter to city council protesting the tearing down of the public market.

In connection with the loss of the market, a sum of more than $14 was set aside for the rehabilitation of a new class of DPs, displaced pigeons.

The decorations, including seagulls, lots of handknitted miniature scarves, and amusing signboards, set the theme for the group of bird watchers who occupied the centre dining table. All the tables were centred with large brown tea pots holding marigolds and a package of tea was given to each guest.

Norway Honeymoon Follows Wedding

A honeymoon in Norway, Scotland and other parts of Europe followed the recent wedding of Colleen Elizabeth Miller, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Hugh C. Miller, 3171 Gies Lake Road, to Mr. Lars Lovbakke, son of Mr. S. Lovbakke of Oslo, Norway.

The bride and groom flew from Patricia Bay airport to New York after the ceremony in Central Baptist Church, where they will board s.s. Bergensjord sailing for Oslo.

Rev. Don Richardson officiated at the double ring wedding, when the church was decorated with baskets of white and mauve lilac and white broom.

In a gown of white peau de soie, with a bodice of Chantilly lace and a skirt on train appliqued with lace panels the bride carried a bouquet of three mauve orchids and lily of the valley.

Her jewelry was a string of pearls, gift of the groom, and a tiara of diamonds and seed pearls held a veil of hand-rolled illusion net.

Miss Arla Smalley and Mrs. Rosemary Foster, bridal attendants wore gowns of mauve organza over mauve taffeta with satin cummerbunds caught in a double bow at the back. Their organza picture hats were trimmed with violets and each carried a bouquet of white gladioli.

Miss Janette Taylor, flower girl, was dressed in white organza with a sash of mauve satin trimmed with violets. She carried a basket of spring flowers.

Mr. Norman Oldfield was best man. Mr. Sandy Miller and Mr. Reg Foster acted as ushers.

Mr. A. Element proposed the toast to the bride at a reception held in Old England Inn.

Leaving for their honeymoon the new Mrs. Lovbakke changed into a dressmaker suit of mauve wool boucle, a hat of organza flowers in tones of mauve and green, and black accessories. Her corsage was a white gardenia.

When the newlyweds return early in August they will make their home in Vancouver Bay.

Canada Shows Way For Australia's Arts

MELBOURNE (CP)—A request for a commission of inquiry into the state of the arts and letters in Australia on the lines of Canada's Massey report may soon be made to the Australian government.

A committee, sponsored by prominent men and women associated with creative and interpretative arts in Melbourne, is preparing to present a formal case for an Australian arts inquiry to Prime Minister Menzies.

The proposal has country-wide support from artists, writers and musicians who say advancement in Australia's cultural and intellectual life has lagged behind almost all other aspects of the country's national development.

Their main source of inspiration has been the 1951 report of the royal commission on Canada's cultural development headed by Vincent Massey which led to formation of the Canada Council. The Massey report is probably the most widely read Canadian document ever to appear in Australia.

SCHOOL THEME
Highlighted in Australia's foremost literary journals, the report last year formed the theme of a weekend school organized by the Victoria Adult Education Association. The course was called Aid to the Arts—Is Canada a Step Ahead?

Canadian High Commissioner T. W. L. MacDermott spoke on the Massey report and its outcome. A program of Canadian national film board productions exhibited activities of organizations connected with the Canada Council.

VISITS ADDED
Work of the Canada Council has been further publicized by granting of fellowships to Australians and visits of Canadians to Australia.

Fred Alexander, professor of history at the University of Western Australia, has written a book on Canadians and Foreign Policy following a Canadian tour and Sir Bernard Heinze, principal of the Sydney Conservatorium, now is studying problems of orchestral development in Canada.

A. R. M. Lower, professor of history at Queen's University, recently visited Australia on a Canada Council grant.

LUXURY LINER HAD SHADY REPUTATION

Ever wonder how the word "Posh" found its way into our language? "Posh" is another word for luxury, and its origin is an interesting one. The Pacific and Orient Steamship Line between Great Britain and the Orient used to charge a premium for cabins on the shady side of the ship.

Since the shady side was the port, or left-hand side, on the outward voyage, and the starboard, or right-hand side, when homeward bound, the cabins were referred to as Port Outward—Starboard Home, or P.O.S.H.

Words are fascinating creatures. They have so many faces. Take the word "bank," for example. It can mean the ground near a river, an establishment for the custody of money, or, when it's used as a verb, security of feeling, absolute reliability. "You can bank on it," we say.

These last two meanings bear a connection that is far from coincidental. The fact is, a bank represents security and reliability, especially the Bank of Montreal.

And, of course, saving at the Bank of Montreal doesn't only mean your money is safe. It also means that with money in the bank you can often take advantage of unexpected opportunities that might otherwise pass you by.

Ask Ron Hackney, Manager of the Savings Department at the Main Branch, Douglas and Yates Street, of the B of M about it. He'll show you how easy it is—and how profitable—to open a savings account. See him soon!

Millinery Show Presented by WA

Hats with deep crowns and wide brims lavishly trimmed with flowers, were featured in the display of millinery and accessories recently given by the Evening WA of Christ Church Cathedral in Memorial Hall.

Members of the cathedral congregation acting as models were Mrs. H. Sparks, Miss Mary Bell, Miss Marilyn Taylor and Mrs. M. Laughlin.

Homecoming stall was in charge of Miss Alison Chow, assisted by Mrs. E. Stewart, Miss Alice George and Miss Merle Baker, sewing by Mrs. W. G. Drew, convenor, and Mrs. J. Stillwell, Mrs. E. Reesor and Mrs. L. Small. Fashion convenor was Mrs.

B. Murgatroyd, and commentator Mr. W. Sinclair.

Guests were welcomed by Mrs. Brian Whitlow and Mrs. M. Laughlin.

Proceeds of the tea, approximately $240, will be used for work of the WA.

Stole in 1910, Sorry in 1960

BRISTOL, England (CP)—A West Country man who emigrated to Canada 42 years ago has written to a Somerset farmer to apologize for stealing apples as a schoolboy in 1910.

A. A. Gardiner of St. Lambert, Que., wrote to J. C. Osborne, who farms near Bristol, to say he owes the Osborne family an apology for taking the apples from an orchard owned by Osborne's grandfather.

St. Andrew's Cathedral was the scene of the recent wedding of Mr. and Mrs. Peter Zozula. Bride is the former Rosemarie Theresa Maloney, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Maloney, 2705 Prior Street. Mr. and Mrs. William Zozula, 533 Foul Bay Road, are parents of the groom. (Photo by Ryan Bros. Studio.)

School Girls Model At Annual Meeting

At annual meeting of the Home Economics and Dietetics Association, held in the Thistle Room at Glenshiel Hotel Wednesday evening, Mrs. Ruth Clay was elected president. Other officers are Mrs. Ivy Humberstone, vice-president; Miss Pat Bawner, secretary; Miss Elma Innes, treasurer; Mrs. Bevelley Anderson, program; Mrs. Eleanor Thomas, social; Miss Norah Vicars, bursary and Mrs. Betty Young, publicity.

Retiring president, Miss

Vicars, presided, and seated with her at the head table were Mrs. Margaret Talbot, Mrs. Anderson, Miss Eveline Bennett and Miss Muriel Fox of Saba Bros.; Mrs. Clay and Miss Lillias Milne.

During the evening a sum of $100 was voted as a bursary for a college girl taking higher education in home economics and dietetics.

Following the dinner meeting Miss Bennett and Miss Fox gave an interesting talk on materials and patterns for summer and autumn. They were assisted by seven pretty young girls from the home economics classes of Victoria High School, who acted as models. They were Misses Roberta Davidson, Lois Gow, Merla James, Joanne Darr, Doreen Rogers, Maureen McAlney and Albx Esselmont.

What's Cooking!

Candied Flowers Make Cake Pretty

By LOUISE MOORE
Top off the meal with this luscious cake which can be carried into the living room as a surprise to serve with fragrant coffee.

The cake may be a white layer cake made with a mix or a rich chocolate cake but the icing is the highlight—rich and creamy, made with semi-sweet chocolate and beaten to a fluffy cloud.

Centred with an old-fashioned bouquet which is merely a lace paper dolly, candied flowers and leaves bought at a confectioner's and ribbons of white frosting, it looks adorable.

SPECIAL DEVIL'S FOOD
Put into a sifter: 2 cups sifted cake flour, 1/2 tsp. salt and 1 tsp. baking soda. Sift 3 times.

Cream 1/2 cup butter and gradually beat in 1 1/4 cups white sugar and beat until light and fluffy. Beat in 1 large well beaten egg then 3 squares unsweetened chocolate melted and beat well. Add 1/2 of the flour and beat well. Add a little of the flour, beat and add 1/4 cup thick sour cream and beat well.

Add rest of flour mixture alternately with 1/2 cup rich milk in small amounts beating between additions. Add 1 tsp. vanilla. Bake in two 9-inch layer cake pans well greased in moderate oven (350 degrees F.) about 30 minutes.

Cool a little and remove from pans. Frost with:

RICH CHOCOLATE FROSTING
Melt 3 squares of unsweetened chocolate in top of double boiler and when melted remove from boiling water and add 2 1/2 tbsp. hot water and 1 1/2 cups confectioner's sugar. Beat to blend well.

Add 3 egg yolks, one at a time beating well after each addition. Add 1/2 cup butter a tbsp. at a time, beating thoroughly after each amount. Add 1/2 tsp. vanilla and beat thoroughly. Makes enough frosting for top and sides of layer cake.

An excellent way to use the leftover egg yolks or use whites of whole eggs to make meringues or a white cake.

PARKSVILLE, B.C.—The annual regional meeting of the Vancouver Island branches of the Business and Professional Women's Clubs of British Columbia was held at the Island Hall Hotel and was attended by close to 80 members from Victoria, Duncan, Nanaimo, Port Alberni, Courtenay-Comox and the newly formed Campbell River club.

Mrs. Agnes Joughlin, Duncan, regional director, was in charge of the meeting, and special guests included Miss Adele deLange, Vancouver, provincial president; Mrs. Winnifred Gerry, Winnipeg, national chairman of legislation; Miss E. L. Forbes, Victoria, national vice-president; Miss Hilda Hesson and Miss Margaret Clay, Victoria, past national presidents of the B.P.W.C.

Miss Dorothea Lucas, Nanaimo, was elected regional director. Mrs. Ruby Masters of Victoria was in charge of the election.

Miss deLange announced that a new club has been organized at Sidney, B.C.

Cancer Fund Receives $50

Jaycee-Eltes of Victoria held a dinner meeting recently at the Monterey restaurant with Mrs. T. S. Price in the chair.

The sum of $50 was voted to be donated to the Cancer Society. The welfare committee reported purchasing a pair of orthopedic shoes for a needy child.

At a brief initiation ceremony the following new members were inducted into the club and presented with Jaycee-Elte pins: Mrs. T. Barlow, Mrs. P. Blewett, Mrs. R. Bowden, Mrs. R. Darnell, Mrs. G. Layne, Mrs. J. MacLeod, Mrs. R. Owen, Mrs. R. Picket, Mrs. W. Pipes, Mrs. G. Robbins and Mrs. M. Shepherd.

Raise $4,000 For Symphony

At annual meeting of Women's Committee to Victoria Symphony Society, held in the home of Mrs. D. B. Roxburgh Monday evening, Mrs. Arthur Laundry was re-elected president for a second year.

Other officers are Mrs. E. E. Pearlman, first vice-president; Mrs. B. R. Nickells, second vice-president; Mrs. Ethel Bishop, recording secretary; Miss Audrey Miller, corresponding secretary, and Mrs. R. Rogers, treasurer.

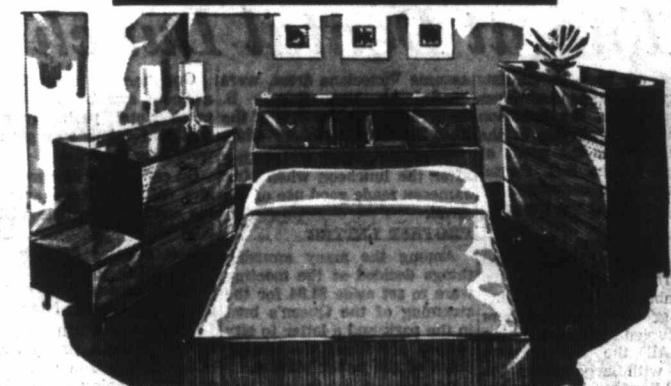

Reports given by Mrs. Laundry and other officers, showed that through sponsoring a dance review, a ball, sale of a car, teas, fashion shows and Canadian Players' production, a total sum of $4,050 had been added to Symphony Society funds by the women's committee in the past year.

Garden Notes

Seeds of Superstition

By M. V. CHESNUT, FRHS

Seems to me that a fitting subject to discuss on Friday the 13th would be the superstitions attached to certain of our plants.

Probably the best known of these is the good luck which follows the finding of a four-leafed clover. Just why this should be, I don't quite know. The ordinary three-leafed variety is supposed to represent the Holy Trinity and in the case of the small clover which masquerades under the name of Shamrock, the good St. Patrick himself is said to have picked one and used it to illustrate the Three-in-One and One-in-Three concept.

Not so well known is the fact that our lovely flower, the Peony, was once held in superstitious awe. The seed pods, when opened by night and at the time of the summer solstice, were supposed to shine with a radiant light. Notwithstanding this weird radiance, the seeds had to be gathered in the darkness, for according to Pliny,—if any man shall pluck the pods in the daye tyme, being seene of the Wood-pecker, he is in danger to lose his eyes.

Also, according to the ancient Greeks, to touch a Peony plant brings incredibly bad luck and even death. The writer Aelianus gives full instructions what to do if one of the dreaded Peony plants is found in the garden: "A string must be fastened to it in the night, and a hungry dog tied thereto, who being allured by the smell of roasted flesh set towards him, may pluck it up by the roots."

The cucumber, on the other hand, was valued as a good luck charm and was believed to bring good health to the ailing. John Gerard, a London physician, writing in 1595, has this to say:

"A long gourd or cucumber, being laid in the cradle of a young infant whilst it is asleep and sicke of an ague, it shall be very quickly made well agayne." I am puzzled now as to whether our New Zealand cucumber can qualify as a good-health charm, for certainly it isn't long, but round.

An interesting superstition, stemming from Northern France and some parts of England, holds that the common garden pea springs up spontaneously in times of famine, to feed the hungry poor. A journal called Stowe's Chronicle, published in 1555, gives the following account:

"In the moneth of August, in Suffolk at a place by the sea side of hard stone and pibble, where never grew grasse, nor any earth was ever seene; it chanced in this barren place suddenly to spring up without any tillage or sowing, great abundance of Peason, whereof the poore gathered above an hundred quarters, yet remained some ripe and blossoming, as many as ever there were before: to the which place rode the Bishop of Norwich and the Lord Willoughby; with others in grate numbers, who found nothing but hard rockie stone the space of three yards under the roots of these Peason; which roots were great and very long."

I have written before of the dangers attendant upon allowing your wife to sow the seeds of parsley. If her seeds come up, she will wear the pants in the family from that time on. An unmarried girl who succeeds with a sowing of parsley seed will never find a husband.

TV in Review

Pea-Picker at Round Table

By Fred Danzig

NEW YORK (UPI) — Tennessee Ernie Ford packed his oversized bag of assorted goodies Tuesday night and flashed back 1,432 years to give the Startime hour one of its smoother journeys.

The NBC-TV special, "Tennessee Ernie Meets King Arthur," was a frisky, free-wheeling adaptation by Roland Kibbee of Mark Twain's classic, "A Connecticut Yankee in King Arthur's Court."

Ford, our eyewitness to history, made his journey to understanding with his usual wide-eyed facade and supply of verdant, grass roots humor. His homilies and similes exploited every possible target.

We first met the Ol' Pea-Picker in a 20th century laboratory, the unwilling subject of a scientific experiment. (That lab scene, with scientists bustling about, somehow resembled a commercial for a new cigaret filter.) Actually, they were about to put Ernie in their time machine and shuttle him back to King Arthur's Camelot in the year 528.

The obvious differences between those days and today's civilization were massaged with innocent, gentle and semi-apologetic little jokes.

Noting that he would be traveling backward in space, Ford referred to himself as a "Back Astronaut." Told that he had landed in Camelot, he asked, "Is that anywhere near Chattanooga?"

When a servant came along with a tray, Ernie asked, "Whadya got there? Vittles?"

The answer: "No. Food."

And so it went.

In one ominous scene, where Ernie was about to be burned at the stake by King Arthur, Ernie appealed for the abolition of capital punishment. But that was about as controversial as the dialogue became. Usually, Ol' Ern was busy wowing the Camelotians with quotes from Shakespeare, Lincoln, Jefferson, Nathan Hale and "The Farmer's Almanac," and intro-

The Battle of Von Braun

LONDON (NANA) — "Guns of Navarone," director Lee Thompson told me of his battles with Werner Von Braun when he was filming the life story of the German rocket genius, "I Aim at the Stars," with Curt Jurgens portraying the famed scientist. "He liked the first script which didn't accuse him of allowing himself to be used," said Lee. "It only showed his achievements. We had tremendous rows on what constitutes a traitor. I wanted a character portrayal. He finally agreed to my interpretation. And that took courage. No living man has been attacked so strongly in a film. Funny thing, when von Braun went over to the Americans, the Germans still idolized him—our boy made good sort of thing."

David Niven, a corporal in "Guns of Navarone," goes to work every day in his gleaming Rolls-Royce. David has a chalet in Switzerland—but not to avoid paying taxes in America," he assured me. "Anyone who lives abroad for such a reason is crazy." David sold his big home in California, "but only because my two sons are at school in the east, and nowadays an actor has to work all over the world." Next film for Niven, if he finishes "Navarone" in time, will be "The Marriage Go Round" with Susan Hayward.

Anthony Quinn, playing a Greek patriot, is so sun-burned from the long location on Rhodes, "that I don't have to use any makeup—except for the wrinkles," he laughed. "I loved Rhodes so much that I bought 300 acres there. I left orders for a thousand trees to be planted."

Cerebral Palsy

Seven-Year Growth Marked by Clinic

In seven years the Victoria cerebral palsy clinic at Royal Jubilee Hospital has grown to the point where it cares for 73 patients from most sections of southern Vancouver Island.

This week is being observed in British Columbia as Cerebral Palsy Week.

Every year in B.C. at least 100 children are born with cerebral palsy.

There is no known cure for the crippling disease, but children can be helped greatly to overcome their handicap and many live a near-normal life if given proper treatment and training from an early age.

Cerebral palsy results from damage to the "motor" portion of the brain brought on by injury before birth, during birth, or from an accident in the child's early years.

The motor area of the brain is responsible for all body movements.

Damage can be extreme or slight, sometimes a limb is left useless or speech affected. In many cases a child may have a slight limp or a hand that won't operate smoothly.

When the degree of injury is determined, doctors and specialists utilize the undamaged portion of the brain to teach the patient how to overcome the handicap.

Since the Victoria clinic opened in February, 1953, with only part-time workers and seven patients, it has blossomed into a centre employing nine full-time specialists and two part-time helpers.

Physiotherapy, occupational therapy, speech therapy and education are offered to the 73 patients who range in age from one to 18.

More than 33,000 miles a year are traveled in Victoria by a fleet of three "Bunny Buses" carrying children to and from the clinic.

Last year, 88 children were treated 6,892 times by the clinical staff.

The 75-member women's auxiliary donated a total of 7,700 hours of time in 1959.

All these figures will probably be exceeded in 1960.

Canadians 'Lazily Content' with Government Aid

OTTAWA (CP) — Senator that too many Canadians are "lazily content with government aid" suggested Thursday the withdrawal of a government motion to create a Senate committee that would seek out the means of ensuring full employment.

Gist of his argument was what is taking place today?

"American capital, and I in Japan and Germany are would not doubt Canadian willing to work and work a capital also, is thinking strong larger number of hours per day than our people do and there will be no stopping plants in Europe... and in Japan, manufacturing their products there and shipping them back to Canada.

"Why? Because those people hire a worker but was told that the man would rather work a bit and then draw unemployment insurance.

"I know men in my town of Blaine Lake, Sask., who are living far better than fellows who work hard. They are on social aid, supposedly not able to work, yet they enjoy themselves and drive good cars and all that sort of thing."

Senator Horner deplored what he termed the tendency of people to lean on the government. He mentioned Elliott Lake, Ont., and the pleas for government aid in the face of a mining shut-down because of lack of markets for uranium, but the shortening of hours, coffee breaks, lack of production per man.

"Why, bless you, all my life out west I have seen lumber towns, great towns and people who moved into them, and when the timber was cut in a certain area and there was no work left for them to do, did they ever think of appealing to the government to move them out? No, they made their living without appealing to the government."

He said 80 per cent of the real cause of Canada's economic troubles "is due to labor costs, not so much the wages but the shortening of hours, coffee breaks, lack of production per man."

Canadians were developing the attitude that if a man works hard, makes money and is successful he is called "a shady character."

"But let him steal and get sent to jail and he has the sympathy of the whole community."

Senator Horner suggested immigrants should be admitted to Canada "in the hundreds of thousands."

Red Correspondent Says:

Spy Was Elated He Landed Alive

LONDON (UPI) — The Communist Daily Worker said yesterday that American pilot Francis Powers owes his life to the fact that the Soviet rocket that shot down his plane exploded under its tail.

The newspaper, in a report from its Moscow correspondent, said that the rocket hit Powers, 30-year-old civilian pilot from Albany, Ga., was shot down on a reconnaissance flight deep in Soviet territory May 1. The Soviet Union has said it will try him as a spy.

The Worker account of the rocket strike said Powers had trouble escaping from the Lockheed U-2 reconnaissance plane.

"Powers was flung forward under his instrument panel," it said. "This, together with the deformation of the fuselage, made it impossible for him to use his ejector seat. If Powers had tried to eject, the seat would not have worked, the newspaper reported.

It said the U-2 was hit at an altitude of 68,000 feet and the pilot struggled to free himself as it plunged downward. He did not succeed until it had fallen to 27,000 feet. He then forced open the cockpit and parachuted.

Soviet officials reported that Powers' first reaction was sheer pleasure at being alive, the Worker said.

For Fine

Dentists Must Sue!

The British Columbia College of Dental Surgeons will have to take the city of Victoria to court if it wants to claim a $60 fine recently imposed on a dental mechanic, city council decided yesterday.

The college recently prosecuted a man in city police court for violation of the Dentistry Act. The man was fined $60.

The college has claimed the money from council, to help defray costs of prosecution, claiming that it is entitled to the money under a provision of the act.

Although city solicitor T. P. O'Grady told council he agreed with the college's interpretation of the act, aldermen voted 6-2 against paying the amount of the fine.

Chest Asks City For Total Grant

Victoria Community Chest yesterday asked city council to stop donating to charities which do not belong to the Chest and to give the Chest the $25,000 the council donates each year to charities.

Council referred the letter to its finance committee for consideration and a report, but Acting Mayor Arthur Dowell and Ald. Hugh Ramsay said they are opposed to the suggestion.

The letter, signed by Eric Mallett, president of the Community Chest, said council grants to the Chest had varied from $8,000 in 1954 to nothing last year. The grants came from the $25,000 fund set aside by council each year for charitable donations.

"The Community Chest has maintained an open-door policy and specifically invited several of the 'go-it-alone' agencies to join with us in one United Appeal which would prove of considerable convenience to the public, to the volunteers and the agencies concerned," Mr. Mallett's letter said.

"We believe that the city council in its decision to practically open the door on tag days considerably weakened the position of the Chest and that this could be considerably improved by council allotting the Chest the full amount set aside for charitable purposes.

"Those agencies wishing to share in these funds could make application to join the Chest," Mr. Mallett said.

Royal Theatre Purchase

Dowell Opposes Deal

Acting Mayor Arthur Dowell mitter is studying a proposal to make a study of a proposed auditorium, and figures of the Royal Theatre by the city because the 48-year-old building hasn't the facilities needed in a civic auditorium.

Assistant city engineer Rod Erick Clark yesterday took issue with statements concerning use of the theatre as an auditorium made by Jack Phillion of Victoria Kinsmen Club. Mr. Clark said he wished to see the city buying it. We need something more modern, he said. At no time did the Kinsmen hire the play for Pittsburgh Steelers to the National Football League.

With Pittsburgh

PITTSBURGH (AP) — John Henry Johnson, a 6-3, 220-pound fullback obtained in a recent deal with Detroit Lions, signed a contract Thursday to play for Pittsburgh Steelers of the National Football League.

He said the firm — with which he was associated at that time, 1955 — made the survey as a public service for the Chamber of Commerce.

The study showed auditorium costs up to 1954 varied from $100 to $1,000 per seat. "It appears the figures (quoted) were arrived at by multiplying the lowest cost by the number of seats required," he said.

Liquor Rights Asked For Indians by Synod

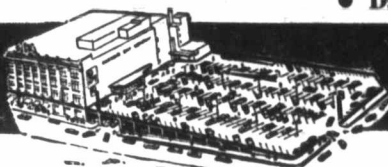

A motion to help give Indians the same liquor privileges as others was passed yesterday at the final meeting of the 58th session of the Anglican Diocesan Synod of British Columbia.

G. G. Reynolds of Port Alberni, who have both worked with and are interested in the affairs of B.C.'s Indian population. The resolution was the high light of the day's meeting of 65 members of the clergy and 200 laymen from all parts of Vancouver Island.

Rev. William Hills of Victoria, Rev. D. B. Houghton of Cowichan, and Rev. Canon G. H. Greenhaigh, of Comox, were elected to the executive committee of the Anglican Diocesan Synod of British Columbia. A majority vote in favor of a motion to increase the synod's assessment to the General Synod of the Anglican Church of Canada from $23,000 to $30,000 was voted by Most Rev. Harold E. Sexton, Archbishop of British Columbia.

Third Year for Victoria

Top UBC Prize Won by City Student

Ninth Time City Scholar Wins Award

The Governor-General's Gold Medal today was won by a Victoria student for the third successive year as Michael Gerry, 20, of 933 Falkland Road, finished at the head of the 1960 graduating class in the faculty of arts and science at UBC.

It is the ninth occasion since 1945 that local students have walked away with the highest academic award bestowed in the province.

MARLENE REPEATS

In the list of award winners throughout the province, prepared by the university for release this morning, last year's Gold Medal winner Marlene Rae Hunt, 521 White-side, received a pre-master's degree scholarship from Canada Council.

ISLAND TRIUMPH

In all, this year, 20 awards went to students from Vancouver Island.

Stewart Cecil Clark of Nanaimo receives the Horner Gold Medal for heading the graduating class in the faculty of pharmacy. He also won a $50 Cunningham Prize for the most outstanding record in all years of pharmacy, and the Merck book award for the highest standing in pharmaceutical chemistry.

OTHER AWARDS

In addition to the governor-general's award, Mr. Gerry receives the Lefevre Gold Medal with a $62.50 scholarship for proficiency in chemistry, and an $1,800 bursary from the National Research Council.

Mr. Gerry is working for the summer at the Pacific Naval Laboratory in Esquimalt. He said yesterday he will return to UBC this fall to take a master's degree in chemistry. But beyond that his future plans are "indefinite."

PRIVATE SCHOOLS

He is the son of Mrs. Gwyneth Gerry, 933 Falkland, and was runner-up in class standings at the end of his second and final year at Victoria University. His early education was at Glenlyon and University School.

Patricia York of Nanaimo received honorable mention as runner-up for the Dr. Maxwell A. Cameron Memorial award for general proficiency in the faculty of education.

SURGERY AWARD

Donald Ross Carlow, 2751 Avebury, won the Dr. Frank Porter Patterson Memorial $150 scholarship for proficiency and meritorious record in surgery. He also receives the Hamber Scholarship in medicine of $750 towards his internship.

Robin Hugh Farquhar, 2012 Romney, was awarded a $250 B.C. Electric scholarship for graduate study.

JODE PRIZE

JODE Scott Memorial $100 scholarship for proficiency in gynecetics went to John Joseph Haegert, 1516 Pembroke.

Awards made by other institutions included: Athlone Scholarship for engineering training in the U.K. to David William Brown, 3965 Locarno; National Research Council studentships worth $2,200 each to Marcus A. M. Bell, 742 St. Patrick, Audrey F. Ellis, 2586 Blackwood, Arthur J. S. Smith, 1255 Oscar, and Barry E. Turner, 4560 Viewmont.

OTTAWA BURSARY

John M. Gilliland 840 Richmond, was awarded a National Research Council bursary of $1,800. Timothy Angus Williams of Victoria won a Woodrow Wilson National Fellowship worth $1,500 for graduate study leading to academic teaching.

Once in a Lifetime Thrill

Atom structure makes lunch-time reading for Michael Gerry, 933 Falkland, doing summer work at Pacific Naval Laboratory. But news he won Governor-General's Gold Medal as

Black Tongue? —Try a Vet

Colonist reporter Terry Hammond, after a week of the Colonist's recent series of articles by Arthur King, Hammond, a three-pack-a-day "addict," describes another step in his withdrawal.

By TERRY HAMMOND
Q-Day minus eight.

More questions from readers.

Q. My niece smokes so much that she doesn't eat anything and her tongue is black. Isn't it time she quit?

A. Your niece has black tongue, a disease heretofore only common among cattle and dogs. Try taking her to a veterinarian. You ask me if she should quit smoking and, presumably, resume eating. This seems sound, but it should be made clear to your niece that she can't expect to save as much by cutting out cigarettes as she did by giving up food.

Q. The Arthur King series said that for two or three days after Q-Day, the person who is giving up cigarettes should avoid stress. I would like to point out that if a person could avoid stress he would not have started smoking in the first place.

A. We have just cancelled your subscription.

Q. My husband started to quit smoking with your series but now he has given it up and he is back to smoking before breakfast. This morning he burned a hole in the blanket. I don't know what to do—do you?

A. Yes, double the insurance.

Cigaret Addict's Diary

on your home and see if you can get your husband to sleep in the bathtub with about an inch of water over him. Liberal oiling of the skin twice a day will take out the wrinkles.

Q. I have been a heavy smoker for 47 years and a week ago I quit all at once. What do you think of that?

A. I don't think of it at all—I don't even believe it.

Q. I am quitting smoking and I would like to know if it is true that a quart of buttermilk a day has helped some people?

A. Yes, it is true. It has helped the buttermilk people. Q. I have a friend who stopped smoking three years ago but who says he still misses it. How long can this last?

A. Sixty to 80 years, depending how old he is.

Q. I read about a man who smoked every day of his adult life and lived to be 109. Doesn't this contradict what the experts say?

A. No, he died of lung cancer.

We Can't Fire Off Protests Daily Green Tells House Critics of U.S.

OTTAWA (CP)—Canada can't fire off protest notes every day or two to the United States, External Affairs Minister Green said yesterday. He said this is particularly true when Washington already knows Canada's position well.

This was Mr. Green's Commons reply to Paul Martin (L, Essex East), who asked whether the government had indicated to the U.S. its opposition to underground nuclear tests.

"Our position is thoroughly well known to the U.S. and no protest has been made," Mr. Green replied. Mr. Green several times has summed up Canada's position on nuclear tests this way: "We are opposed to nuclear tests, period."

Reds May Help Newfoundland With Labrador

ST. JOHN'S, Nfld. (CP)—Premier Joseph Smallwood calmly announced Thursday night that Newfoundland and Russia may get together on developing Labrador's vast power potential. Then the premier dashed to his office, locked his door to reporters and retired for the night.

Mr. Smallwood told 100 members of the St. John's Lions' Club that Russian experts are prepared to help Newfoundland tap the power potential of Hamilton Falls in central Labrador.

SHOWN INTEREST

The Russians, he said, have shown interest in the development "and have said that provided it is for peaceful purposes they are willing to help with whatever technical knowledge they have."

The premier left immediately after the dinner for his office in the Confederation building. He sleeps on a day bed in the office when he remains in the city at night. His farm at Roache's Line is 50 miles away.

It was not known what—if any—communication with Russian officials the premier has had.

The premier said it was only a question of finding customers and a convenient and economical way of delivering the power.

"The Russians may have the answer to that," he said. "We are going to find out."

Mr. Smallwood did not elaborate.

He was expounding "the great natural treasure" of Labrador's minerals when he mentioned the Russians.

Crash Kills Aly Khan

PARIS (AP)—Playboy diplomat Prince Aly Khan, 48, father of the young reigning Aga Khan, was killed Thursday night in a car crash at suburban Suresnes.

With the prince, a connoisseur of beautiful women, was the French model Bettina. She was released after hospital treatment.

Police said Prince Aly was killed at the wheel of his grey Lancia when it smashed head-on into another car in the centre of a suburban highway.

FIRST SON

Prince Aly was the first son of the late Aga Khan III and father of Aga Khan IV. The latter succeeded to the title over Prince Aly while he was a university student three years ago.

SETTLED DOWN

Prince Aly, who lately had settled down as permanent representative of Pakistan at the United Nations in New York, had long kept feminine hearts fluttering in the glittering world in which he moved.

He was romantically involved with celebrated beauties and his marriage to Rita Hayworth—destined to break up less than two years later—was a lavish Riviera affair of 1949 that attracted world-wide attention.

WELL-KNOWN

As a horseman, his thoroughbreds were well-known to the world's tracks.

Aly Khan was born in Turin, Italy, June 3, 1911, the son of the Aga Khan III by the second of his four wives, an Italian ballet dancer named Theresa Magliano.

He was an officer with the French Foreign Legion, then was with the British Army, and during the latter part of the Second World War was attached to the American Army. He won the Croix de Guerre, Legion of Honor and Bronze Star.

By UPI, AP and Reuters

PARIS—Allied diplomats said last night Soviet Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev may have advanced his arrival time in Paris to establish a pre-summit propaganda beachhead before President Eisenhower gets here.

An announcement that Khrushchev planned to arrive here around noon Saturday touched off a wave of speculation concerning his intentions. Eisenhower and British Prime Minister Harold Macmillan are scheduled to reach Paris Sunday. The summit conference opens Monday.

SPY INCIDENT

Some western officials believed Khrushchev might have decided to get here first to try to get in some propaganda spadework with President Charles de Gaulle over the American "spy" plane incident. (See spy plane developments on Page 3.)

French officials insisted that no meeting before the summit had been asked for or arranged. But they noted it was possible Khrushchev might pay a courtesy call on his French host with whom he was reported at odds over the publicity ground rules for the big four conference.

FACE-TO-FACE

The dramatic face-to-face meeting of Khrushchev and Eisenhower in the wake of the furore over the American espionage plane incident has almost obscured the real purpose of the summit—to discuss the problems of Berlin, Germany and disarmament.

In London—Prime Minister Macmillan said the American spy incident might even help the East-West summit conference.

"If the summit came in a bit like a lion," he said, "then perhaps it would go out like a lamb. It is sometimes better to have a little of the trouble in the first stages of the discussion," Macmillan told the House of Commons.

QUOTES DISRAELI

Macmillan quoted 19th century Prime Minister Benjamin Disraeli as saying, "the most successful conferences were those that met in a healthy state of mutual suspicion."

The prime minister said an air of "vital urgency" could keep the summit leaders from "a temptation to let things slide."

Foreign Secretary Selwyn Lloyd said the spy plane incident might serve a useful purpose in "shaking people out of their complacency" about the summit conference.

COMMONS DEBATE

He was replying in a House of Commons debate to Opposition Leader Hugh Gaitskell, who said U.S. intelligence flights over Russia clearly violate international law.

As workmen hammered, cleaned and repainted, French Information Minister Louis Terrenoire told newspapermen:

"It's certain that the conference, because of the air plane incident, will open in an atmosphere infinitely more uncertain than one thought before."

500,000 Acres of Island's Nimkish Valley Turned Over to Forest Firm

Approval of a Canadian Forest Products Ltd. tree farm licence application covering half a million acres of the Nimkish Valley on North Vancouver Island was announced by Lands and Forests Minister R. G. Williston yesterday.

The area covered by the licence runs from the headwaters of the Nimkish River to the sea, a distance of approximately 65 miles. About 250,000 "productive" acres are embodied in the vast 500,000-acre tract of valley land and the sustained yield capacity is estimated at 20,000,000 cubic feet per year. Approval of the application means that the area will be reserved from other alienation for a period of one year, forest officials explained, pending submission of an acceptable working plan by the company. Sustained yield potential of the area is said to be about 45 per cent of CFP's plant requirements. In announcing approval yesterday, Mr. Williston pointed out that the government has reserved for itself the right to withdraw from the area those portions deemed desirable for public recreation. He said that up to the point of licence approval no detailed study of the recreational potential had been made. Such a study will be launched shortly and completed as soon as possible.

Recreation Minister Earl G. Westwood said later. Mr. Williston said that approval of the licence would have no effect upon what appears to be "the most practical route" of a proposed North Vancouver Island highway along the Nimkish River.

Conditions under which approval has been granted, he stated, "adequately covers this point." Annual cutting plans to be prepared by the company will have to take into consideration the withdrawal clause in order to receive final approval, he added.

Here's Sample of News If Council Goes Secret

If city council adopts the secrecy bylaw which it discussed yesterday (See below) the only information legally available to the press would be the minutes of committee meetings.

This copy of the official minutes covering discussion of the bylaw in council yesterday would be a sample of the type of information that would be available to the public after committee meetings: "On a motion by Ald. McLean, seconded by Ald. Ramsay, the bylaw was introduced. "On a motion by Ald. McLean, seconded by Ald. Ramsay, the bylaw was read a first time. "On a motion by Ald. Mc-

B.C. Offices Shut May 23

All provincial government offices, except the museum, will be closed May 23 for the Victoria Day holiday. Museum hours will be: Saturday, 9 a.m. to noon and 1.10 to 5 p.m.; Sunday, 1 to 5 p.m.; and Monday, 9 a.m. to noon and 1.10 to 5 p.m.

Publicity Welcomed

Rat Tales 'Good' Official Thinks

Land Board Entitled To Opinion

Victoria Real Estate Board is entitled to its own opinion about the value of publicity relating to the area's rat problem, Dr. A. N. Beattie, medical health officer for Saanich and South Vancouver Island Health Unit, said yesterday. "A rat series in the Colonist is stirring up interest, and from our point of view, that's good," he said. "Drawing the attention of people to the need of calling the health department, if they are having trouble with rats, is important."

SCANDALOUS William Bailey, outgoing president of the Victoria Real Estate Board, said Wednesday that "I feel Victoria is a very pleasant place to live and it's scandalous that these reports should go into papers drawing attention to the weaknesses rather than the advantages of Victoria."

"I don't know what effect the publicity has had on real estate or tourists," said Dr. Beattie. He believed that Mr. Bailey was worried about the possibility of Victoria becoming known to outsiders as "a rat centre," and he said he can see the other man's point.

REDUCE RATS "From our point of view, we welcome hearing from people who have trouble with rats. We want to reduce the rat population and any publicity that gets people to call us is good publicity," he said. H. G. H. Watts, senior sanitary inspector of the Saanich and South Vancouver Island Health Unit, said yesterday that the Colonist series "certainly has made people more conscious of the presence of rats. We've had 34 calls this week."

Stop Signs For Ryan

City council yesterday moved to have "Stop" signs placed on Ryan Street, where it intersects with Scott Street. The intersection has been the scene of numerous traffic accidents, including a fatality which occurred last year. Residents took up a petition, demanding that some type of traffic control be installed at the intersection, following the last accident recently.

Arena Gets New Floor

A Vancouver firm has been given a $31,406 contract to install a new floor in Memorial Arena over the top of the present concrete surface. City council yesterday accepted the tender, submitted by J. and E. Hall and Co. Ltd. Council also moved to have the cost of the work taken from the arena reserve account.

Back Hurt In Crash

A 19-year-old pedestrian was treated for back injuries and discharged from St. Joseph's Hospital yesterday afternoon after being in collision with a car at Broad and View, Roberta Hall, 3480 Ripon, was taken to hospital in the police ambulance. Driver of the car was Douglas R. Grover, 325 Jasmine.

Given Three Readings by Council

Secrecy Bylaw Introduced While Mayor Scurrah Away

Support Insufficient City Clerk Warns

In the absence of Mayor Percy Scurrah, who opposes the measure, Ald. Rev. J. L. W. McLean introduced his secrecy bylaw in city council yesterday.

The bylaw, which could exclude reporters and the public from council committee meetings, was given three of the four readings needed for adoption by council, over a warning by city clerk M. F. Hunter that it had received insufficient support to become law. Normally, fourth and final reading of the bylaw would be given at the next meeting of city council, which will be attended by Mayor Scurrah, but the reading will not be given if Mr. Hunter is found to be correct.

Ald. McLean's motion to read the bylaw was seconded by Ald. Hugh Ramsay. Other aldermen who voted in favor of the measure were Mrs. Lily Wilson, Elmer McEwen and Millard Mooney.

Opponents were Ald. Geoffrey Edgelow, Ald. Austin Curtis and Acting Mayor Arthur Dowell.

During discussion Ald. McEwen opposed the bylaw but he voted for it.

Scurrah Was Absent

When Ald. McLean moved to have the bylaw considered, Acting Mayor Dowell pointed out that Mayor Scurrah was absent.

"We all know how the mayor feels about this, I would suggest it be held up until he is here," he said. "I don't see any reason for that," Ald. McLean retorted. "There will be plenty of opportunity to discuss it further."

"The new publicity bylaw suggests the committees may invite the press," he said. "The present bylaw reads in effect that the committees may exclude the press. . .

"This is not a secrecy move and, if this bylaw is passed, after each committee meeting will be held a press conference. . ."

He ridiculed suggestions that the new bylaw would allow committees to carry out council business in private, because of the "press conferences" after each committee meeting.

Ald. McLean suggested some committee members are "inhibited" by the presence of reporters and others slant remarks because of the presence of the press.

In Public Interest

Ald. Edgelow told council he opposed the bylaw in the interests of the public.

"I have been on council six years where Ald. McLean hasn't been on six months," he said. "I have been on council where the press was excluded from committee meetings (during Mayor Claude Harrison's term) and it was not in the best interests of the public."

He said different members of the committees which met secretly gave information to the press and such information was colored by personal opinions.

"I think the public likes to know how its representatives grapple and deal with matters that come before them. This is public business. These are the taxpayers' affairs."

He mentioned the recent proposal to sell part of Thetis Lake Park to the B.C. Electric which was reported from a committee meeting, and pointed out that the reports enabled council to find out public opinion.

"Publicity on the city's interests in their infancy is in the public interest. . ."

Not Secrecy Move

Ald. Ramsay also protested that the bylaw was not a "secrecy" move and said many municipalities across Canada conduct business behind closed doors.

He suggested that following committee meetings reporters could obtain their information from official minutes recorded during the meeting. (See above story.)

Other comments included: Ald. Curtis: "I think, by and large, we are very well served by the press."

Ald. McEwen: "I feel we, as a city council, cannot operate without full support and cooperation of the press, but. . ."

Ald. Mooney: "I think it is proper and right to have the privilege to ask the press to attend, rather than to ask them to leave."

Ald. Mrs. Wilson: "It would please me to invite the press to committee meetings. It does not please me to ask them to leave."

On second reading of the bylaw Mr. Hunter informed Acting Mayor Dowell that the bylaw had failed. He said that it should have a two-thirds majority to pass on the second reading.

City solicitor T. P. O'Grady disputed Mr. Hunter's opinion.

Foul Bay Breakwater Project Approved

Construction of a breakwater at Foul Bay was approved by city council yesterday as a long-range project.

The recommendation that council take this action came in the report of the public works committee.

Ald. Geoffrey Edgelow, chairman of the committee, told council he did not feel council should take more action now, our children's children than merely approving the breakwater for inclusion in its long-range plan for capital improvements.

He pointed out that a breakwater at Foul Bay would cost close to $1,000,000 and said the Turkey Head breakwater, recently constructed by the federal government at Oak Bay, had been advocated some 50 years ago.

"Perhaps, if we support this now, our children's children will get it," he said.

Ninth Time City Scholar Wins Award

The Governor-General's Gold Medal today was won by a Victoria student for the third successive year as Michael Gerry, 20, of 933 Falkland Road, finished at the head of the 1960 graduating class in the faculty of arts and science at UBC.

It is the ninth occasion since 1945 that local students have walked away with the highest academic award bestowed in the province.

MARLENE REPEATS

In the list of award winners throughout the province, prepared by the university for release this morning, last year's Gold Medal winner Marlene Rae Hunt, 521 White-side, received a pre-master's degree scholarship from Canada Council.

ISLAND TRIUMPH

In all, this year, 20 awards went to students from Vancouver Island.

Stewart Cecil Clark of Nanaimo receives the Horner Gold Medal for heading the graduating class in the faculty of pharmacy. He also won a $50 Cunningham Prize for the most outstanding record in all years of pharmacy, and the Merck book award for the highest standing in pharmaceutical chemistry.

OTHER AWARDS

In addition to the governor-general's award, Mr. Gerry receives the Lefevre Gold Medal with a $62.50 scholarship for proficiency in chemistry, and an $1,800 bursary from the National Research Council.

Mr. Gerry is working for the summer at the Pacific Naval Laboratory in Esquimalt. He said yesterday he will return to UBC this fall to take a master's degree in chemistry. But beyond that his future plans are "indefinite."

PRIVATE SCHOOLS

He is the son of Mrs. Gwyneth Gerry, 933 Falkland, and was runner-up in class standings at the end of his second and final year at Victoria University. His early education was at Glenlyon and University School.

Patricia York of Nanaimo received honorable mention as runner-up for the Dr. Maxwell A. Cameron Memorial award for general proficiency in the faculty of education.

SURGERY AWARD

Donald Ross Carlow, 2751 Avebury, won the Dr. Frank Porter Patterson Memorial $150 scholarship for proficiency and meritorious record in surgery. He also receives the Hamner Scholarship in medicine of $750 towards his internship.

Robin Hugh Farquhar, 2012 Romney, was awarded a $250 B.C. Electric scholarship for graduate study.

IOE PRIZE

IOE Scott Memorial $100 scholarship for proficiency in genetics went to John Joseph Haegert, 1516 Pembroke.

Awards made by other institutions included: Athlete's Scholarship for engineering training in the U.K. to David William Brown, 3965 Locarno; National Research Council studentships worth $2,200 each to Marcus A. M. Bell, 742 St. Patrick, Audrey P. Ellis, 2586 Blackwood, Arthur J. S. Smith, 1255 Oscar, and Barry E. Turner, 4560 Viewmont.

OTTAWA BURSARY

John M. Gilliland 540 Richmond, was awarded a National Research Council bursary of $1,800. Timothy Angus Williams of Victoria won a Woodrow Wilson National Fellowship worth $1,500 for graduate study leading to academic teaching.

More questions from readers.

Q. My niece smokes so much that she doesn't eat anything and her tongue is black. Isn't it time she quit?

A. Your niece has black-tongue, a disease heretofore only common among cattle and dogs. Try taking her to a veterinarian. You ask me if she should quit smoking and, presumably, resume eating. This seems sound, but it should be made clear to your niece that she can't expect to save as much by cutting out cigarettes as she did by giving up food.

Q. The Arthur King series said that for two or three days after Q-Day the person who is giving up cigarettes should avoid stress. I would like to point out that if a person could avoid stress he would not have started smoking in the first place.

A. We have just cancelled your subscription.

Q. My husband started to quit smoking with your series but now he has given it up and he is back to smoking before breakfast. This morning he burned a hole in the blanket. I don't know what to do—do you?

A. Yes, double the insurance.

Cigarette Addict's Diary

Q. I have been a heavy smoker for 47 years and a week ago I quit all at once. What do you think of that?

A. I don't think of it at all—I don't even believe it.

Q. I am quitting smoking and I would like to know if it is true that a quart of buttermilk a day has helped some people?

A. Yes, it is true. It has helped the buttermilk people.

Q. I have a friend who stopped smoking three years ago but who says he still misses it. How long can this last?

A. Sixty to 80 years, depending how old he is.

Q. I read about a man who smoked every day of his adult life and lived to be 100. Doesn't this contradict what the experts say?

A. "No," he died of lung cancer.

We Can't Fire Off Protests Daily Green Tells House Critics of U.S.

OTTAWA (CP)—Canada can't fire off protest notes every day or two to the United States, External Affairs Minister Green said yesterday.

He said this is particularly true when Washington already knows Canada's position well.

This was Mr. Green's Commons reply to Paul Martin (L., Essex, East), who asked whether the government had indicated to the U.S. its opposition to underground nuclear tests.

"Our position is thoroughly well known to the U.S. and no protest has been made," Mr. Green replied.

Mr. Green several times has summed up Canada's position on nuclear tests this way: "We are opposed to nuclear tests, period."

Hazen Argue, CCF House leader, asked about the U.S. plan to set off four nuclear explosions in Alaska for peaceful purposes.

Mr. Green said the U.S. has no immediate intention of doing this.

Crackdown Precedes Royal Visit

LUSAKA, Northern Rhodesia (Reuters)—The government of Northern Rhodesia took sweeping action Thursday to end violence in the disturbed copper belt region as the Queen Mother began her 20-day visit to the Rhodesian Federation.

Special regulations gave Governor Sir Evelyn Hone the power to arrest without warrant and the right to detain suspected people or to restrict their movements in a bid to curb the unrest.

The move followed a wave of civil disorder in the copper-rich mining area, to be visited by the Queen Mother May 21 and 22.

Reds May Help Newfoundland With Labrador

ST. JOHN'S, Nfld. (CP)—Premier Joseph Smallwood calmly announced Thursday night that Newfoundland and Russia may get together on developing Labrador's vast power potential. Then the premier dashed to his office, locked his door to reporters and retired for the night.

Mr. Smallwood told 100 members of the St. John's Lions' Club that Russian experts are prepared to help Newfoundland tap the power potential of Hamilton Falls in central Labrador.

SHOWN INTEREST

The Russians, he said, have shown interest in the development "and have said that provided it is for peaceful purposes they are willing to help with whatever technical knowledge they have."

The premier left immediately after the dinner for his office in the Confederation building. He sleeps on a day bed in the office when he remains in the city at night. His farm at Roache's Line is 50 miles away.

It was not known what—if any—communication with Russian officials the premier has had.

The premier said it was only a question of finding customers and a convenient and economical way of delivering the power.

"The Russians may have the answer to that," he said. "We are going to find out."

Mr. Smallwood did not elaborate.

He was expounding "the great natural treasure" of Labrador's minerals when he mentioned the Russians.

Macmillan Hopeful For Parley

By UPI, AP and Reuters

PARIS—Allied diplomats said last night Soviet Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev may have advanced his arrival time in Paris to establish a pre-summit propaganda beachhead before President Eisenhower gets here.

An announcement that Khrushchev planned to arrive here around noon Saturday touched off a wave of speculation concerning his intentions. Eisenhower and British Prime Minister Harold Macmillan are scheduled to reach Paris Sunday. The summit conference opens Monday.

SPY INCIDENT

Some western officials believed Khrushchev might have decided to get here first to try to get in some propaganda spadework with President Charles de Gaulle over the American "spy" plane incident. (See spy plane developments on Page 3.)

French officials insisted that no meeting before the summit had been asked for or arranged. But they noted it was possible Khrushchev might pay a courtesy call on his French host with whom he was reported at odds over the publicity ground rules for the big four conference.

FACE-TO-FACE

The dramatic face-to-face meeting of Khrushchev and Eisenhower in the wake of the furor over the American espionage plane incident has almost obscured the real purpose of the summit—discuss the problems of Berlin, Germany and disarmament.

In London—Prime Minister Macmillan said the American spy incident might even help the East-West summit conference.

"If the summit came in a bit like a lion," he said, "then perhaps it would go out like a lamb. It is sometimes better to have a little of the trouble in the first stages of the discussion," Macmillan told the House of Commons.

QUOTES DISRAELI

Macmillan quoted 19th century Prime Minister Benjamin Disraeli as saying, "the most successful conferences were those that met in a healthy state of mutual suspicion."

The prime minister said an air of "vital urgency" could keep the summit leaders from "a temptation to let things slide."

Foreign Secretary Selwyn Lloyd said the spy plane incident might serve a useful purpose in "shaking people out of their complacency" about the summit conference.

COMMONS DEBATE

He was replying in a House of Commons debate to Opposition Leader Hugh Gaitskell, who said U.S. intelligence flights over Russia clearly violate international law.

As workmen hammered, cleaned and repainted, French Information Minister Louis Terrenoire told newspapermen:

"It's certain that the conference, because of the air-incident, will open in an atmosphere infinitely more uncertain than one thought before."
